

Advancing the Academic Listening and Writing Abilities of High School Transitioning and Expanding ELLs
(Grades 9-12)

NYS Statewide Language RBERN
at the Metropolitan Center for Research on Equity and the Transformation of Schools
New York University

Nancy Cloud, Ed.D.,
Professor Emerita
Rhode Island College
ncloud@ric.edu;
nancycloud2@gmail.com

Agenda

- Define the language characteristics of Transitioning and Expanding ELLs and identify the target skills needed to reach the next stage of proficiency in listening, speaking, reading and writing
- Explore a model unit on the Dust Bowl in which students build academic listening and writing skills around Social Studies informational texts and Dust Bowl literature
- Explore strategies for assisting soon-to-exit ELLs with close reading of novels, biographies, speeches, informational and photo documentary texts; texts which become mentor texts for advancing students' academic vocabularies and writing skills across the genre

Teacher Resource Book for this PD

www.caslonpublishing.com

Teaching Adolescent English Language Learners Essential Strategies for Middle and High School

Nancy Cloud
Judah Lakin
Erin Leininger
Laura Maxwell

With a Foreword by Deborah Short

2010
Caslon Publishing
Philadelphia
Do Not Copy

What's In our Book?

Contents

- 1 The Challenges of Secondary School for English Language Learners 1
  - The Challenge of Graduation Requirements in the United States 1
  - The Challenge of Learning Academic English Sufficient for Success in Secondary School 7
  - The Challenge of Being a New Arrival in a Complex Social Environment 11
  - The Challenge of Departmentalized Secondary Settings for ELLs 16
  - The Challenge of Balancing School, Home, and Work Demands 19
  - The Challenge of School Attendance 21
  - The Challenge of Receiving High-Quality Guidance in Secondary Settings and Assigning Students to the Right Classes 26
  - Summing Up 28
- 2 Credits, Graduation, and Beyond: The Importance of Families, Teachers, and Guidance Counselors Working Together 30
  - The Importance of Guidance for English Language Learners 30
  - Guiding Principles 31
  - Evaluating Guidance Services 32
  - Understanding the Categories of ELLs and Their Needs 32
  - Programs for ELLs 33
  - Assigning Students to Guidance Counselors 36
  - The Guidance Services That ELLs Need 37
  - Educational Guidance 37
  - Personal and Emotional Guidance:
    - Homesickness and the Importance of Family 45
    - Before- and After-School Support 46
    - Family Engagement and Involvement 48
    - Creating Data and Using It to Monitor Your Effectiveness 51
  - Conclusion 52
- 3 Using the Native Language to Support Secondary ELLs 54
  - Teaching Principles 55
  - Changing Demographics 55
  - Additive versus Subtractive Bilingualism 56
  - Common Underlying Proficiency (CUP) versus Separate Underlying Proficiency (SUIP) 57

Copyrighted Material—Cloud, Lakin, Leininger & Maxwell, 2010 —Caslon Publishing, Philadelphia

Evaluating and Understanding Our Students' L1 (Native Language) 58 Clarifying Your School's Stance on Primary Language 58 Schoolwide Strategies 62 Using the Native Language in the Classroom 64 Classroom Strategies 66 When Not to Use the Native Language 73 Conclusion 74 4 Language and Literacy Frameworks to Guide Teachers' Work with Secondary English Language Learners 75 Our Philosophy Regarding Literacy Instruction for Adolescent ELLs 76 Literacy Frameworks and Standards 85 There Is More Than One Kind of Literacy 88 Conclusion 92 5 Oral Language 94 The Challenges of Getting ELLs to Talk in the Secondary Classroom 95 Aspects of Oral Language That Matter in the Secondary Classroom 97 Assessing Oral Language to Guide Instruction 98 Documenting Oral Language Learning Opportunities in the Classroom 100 Helping ELLs Participate in the Classroom 102 Integrating Language Instruction into Classroom Instruction 103 Setting Appropriate Language Targets Oral Language Capabilities and Components to Develop by Level 103 Helpful Classroom Strategies for Promoting Oral Language 103 Conclusion 117 6 Reading in a Second Language 119 Unique Challenges for ELL Readers 119 Selecting Books Secondary ELLs Want to Read: Looking at Content and Proficiency Criteria 121 Making Vocabulary Instruction Routine 125 Teaching Text Structures and Signal Words 130 Teaching and Practicing the Strategies Good Readers Use 132 Providing Daily Experience with Authentic and Real-World Texts to Enhance Reading Fluency 136 Conducting Formative and Summative Assessments to Guide Instruction 138	7 Academic Listening and Note Taking in a Second Language 143 Teaching Principles 143 Note Taking versus Note Making 144 The Importance of Listening and Note Taking 144 Unique Challenges for ELLs 145 Note Taking Matters, and Students Should Know Why 147 Note Taking Begins with Listening 148 Facilitating Note Taking in Class 153 Helping Students Summarize Information 161 Paraphrasing: Putting Things in Your Own Words 165 Evaluating Note Taking 165 Conclusion 166 8 Writing in a Second Language 169 Challenges for ELLs 169 Helping ELLs Overcome Writing Challenges 172 Tailoring the Writing Process to the Needs of ELLs 173 The Fluency Challenge: Developing Writing Fluency/Using Daily Writing 177 Communicative Functions/Performance Indicators 179 Guiding ELLs to Write Expository Text in English 179 Teaching and Modifying Genres for ELLs 180 Helpful Writing Formats to Use with ELLs That Can Cross Personal and Factual Genres 194 Using Assessment to Guide Instruction 201 Conclusion 202 9 Supporting English Language Learners in Mainstream English Classes 204 Who Are the ELLs in Our Classrooms? 205 The Challenges of English Language Arts 207 Motivating ELLs to Achieve in the Mainstream ELA Classroom 207 Building Community 209 Scaffolding Learning for ELLs in the ELA Classroom 215 Providing Opportunities to Extend ELLs' Speaking and Performance Skills 216 Developing Critical Reading and Writing Skills around Literature 219 Developing Vocabulary to Support Reading Comprehension and Extend Writing Skills 224 Strategies for Supporting ELLs in Writing 228 Formative Assessment 231 Conclusion 233 Glossary 235 References 241
---	--

Do Not Copy Copyrighted Material—Cloud, Lakin, Leininger & Maxwell, 2010 —Cason Publishing, Philadelphia

Defining the Language Characteristics of Transitioning and Expanding ELLs

Identifying the Target Skills Needed to Reach the Next Stage of Proficiency in Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing

Let's Unpack the Performance Level Descriptions for Listening, Speaking, Reading and Writing, the ToMs and The New Language Progression Documents

A photograph showing two people from behind, leaning over a large cardboard box. They appear to be unpacking or organizing items. The setting is indoors, possibly a classroom or office, with a potted plant visible in the background.

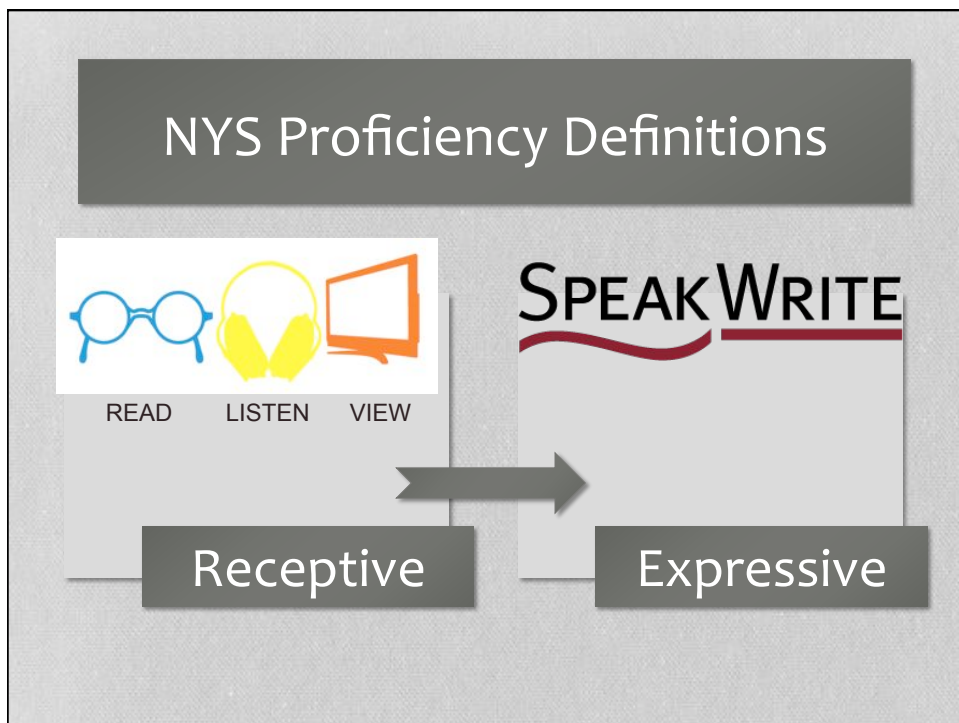

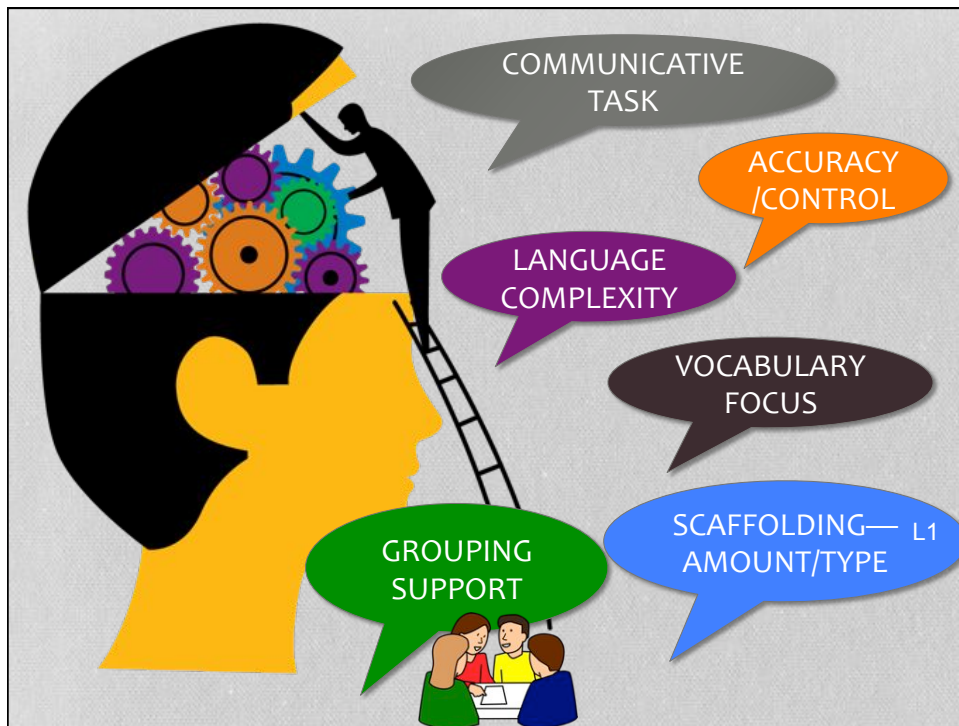

What Do They Tell Us About What Students at Each Proficiency Level Can/Should Be Asked to Do ?

Understanding the 5 Proficiency Levels

Dimensions of Performance:

- Communicative task—What the student is asked to do/performance task (identify, determine, organize, evaluate, integrate information/ideas)
- Linguistic Complexity/Language Expectation- the amount and nature of spoken or written output expected; coherence/cohesion of ideas, sentence types (few words, short phrases, predictable sentences, simple sentences, expanded, complex or variety of sentence types)
- Level of Accuracy/Language Control (expressive): numerous-to frequent,-to occasional-to infrequent errors; errors totally-mostly-partially-minimally obscure meaning
- Level of Support: Substantial, moderate, limited, high level of independence, no support
- Type of Support/Scaffolds: use of instructional strategies or tools used to assist students in accessing content necessary for classroom understanding or communication and to help construct meaning from language (e.g. graphic organizers, pre-taught, pre-identified words and phrases), L1/L2
- Teaching Arrangements: read alouds, partnerships, teacher-led, small groups, whole class, independent learning arrangements
- Vocabulary – the amount of and precision of words or phrases expected; Focus on Tier 1, 2 (3) words (few, some, many)

Listening

2016 LISTENING Performance Level Descriptions – Grades 9–12

GENERAL CLAIM 1 Students can determine information in grade-level spoken discourse.	Entering	Emerging	Transitioning	Expanding	Commanding
Anchor 1 Students can identify key narrative elements and central ideas in grade-level spoken discourse. Target of Measurement 1 Students can identify words, phrases, or sentences that signal important aspects of individuals or events, claims or counterclaims, evidence, multiple points of view, rhetorical devices, and/or the message or theme in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student may, with substantial support, identify a few words, short phrases, or predictable sentences that signal important aspects of individuals or events, claims or counterclaims, evidence, multiple points of view, rhetorical devices, and/or the message or theme in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can, with moderate support, identify some words, phrases, or a few simple sentences that signal important aspects of individuals or events, claims or counterclaims, evidence, multiple points of view, rhetorical devices, and/or the message or theme in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can, with limited support, identify most phrases, simple sentences, or a few expanded or complex sentences that signal important aspects of individuals or events, claims or counterclaims, evidence, multiple points of view, rhetorical devices, and/or the message or theme in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can identify most simple or some expanded or complex sentences that signal important aspects of individuals or events, claims or counterclaims, evidence, multiple points of view, rhetorical devices, and/or the message or theme in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can identify a variety of simple, expanded, or complex sentences that signal important aspects of individuals or events, claims or counterclaims, evidence, multiple points of view, rhetorical devices, and/or the message or theme in grade-level spoken discourse.
Anchor 2 Students can identify words, phrases, and sentences used to elaborate on and connect ideas in grade-level spoken discourse. Target of Measurement 2 Students can identify words, phrases, or sentences that signal or convey key details, sequence, connections, relationships, conclusions, and/or interactions that develop or refine grade-level spoken discourse.	Student may, with substantial support, identify a few words, short phrases, or predictable sentences that signal or convey key details, sequence, connections, relationships, conclusions, and/or interactions that develop or refine grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can, with moderate support, identify some words, phrases, or a few simple sentences that signal or convey key details, sequence, connections, relationships, conclusions, and/or interactions that develop or refine grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can, with limited support, identify most phrases, simple sentences, or a few expanded or complex sentences that signal or convey key details, sequence, connections, relationships, conclusions, and/or interactions that develop or refine grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can identify most simple or some expanded or complex sentences that signal or convey key details, sequence, connections, relationships, conclusions, and/or interactions that develop or refine grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can identify a variety of simple, expanded, or complex sentences that signal or convey key details, sequence, connections, relationships, conclusions, and/or interactions that develop or refine grade-level spoken discourse.
Anchor 3 Students can determine the meaning of vocabulary in grade-level spoken discourse. Target of Measurement 3 Students can determine the literal, figurative, or connotative meaning of Tier 1 and Tier 2 vocabulary, including the cumulative meaning of words and phrases, and their impact in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student may determine the literal meaning of some Tier 1 words and their impact in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can determine the literal meaning of some Tier 1 and a few Tier 2 words and their impact in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can determine most of the literal and a few of the figurative or connotative meanings of Tier 1 and Tier 2 words, including the cumulative meaning of words and phrases, and their impact in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can determine most of the literal and some of the figurative or connotative meanings of Tier 1 and Tier 2 words, including the cumulative meaning of words and phrases, and their impact in grade-level spoken discourse.	Student can determine most of the literal, figurative, or connotative meanings of Tier 1 and Tier 2 words, including the cumulative meaning of words and phrases, and their impact in grade-level spoken discourse.

02/09/2015; rev. 09/30/15

New Language Progressions-Listening

NEW LANGUAGE ARTS PROGRESSIONS (ESL/New Language)

Grades 9–10: Speaking and Listening 3

Common Core Anchor Standard (SL.3): Evaluate a speaker's point of view, reasoning and use of evidence and rhetoric.			MAIN ACADEMIC DEMAND Evaluate a Speaker's Point of View
Common Core Grade 9–10 Standard (SL.9–10.3): Evaluate a speaker's point of view, reasoning and use of evidence and rhetoric, identifying any fallacious reasoning or exaggerated or distorted evidence.			GRADE LEVEL ACADEMIC DEMAND Evaluate a Speaker's Point of View, Evidence and Rhetoric Identify Distorted Evidence
5 Levels of Language Development	Entering (Beginner)	Emerging (Low Intermediate)	Transitioning (High Intermediate)	Expanding (Advanced)	Commanding (Proficient)
When acquiring a new language, using grade level texts and appropriate supports, students are able to:
RECEPTIVE	Listening-Centered Activity: Organize pretaught words and phrases on a T-chart that compares and contrasts sound reasoning and evidence with fallacious reasoning and distorted evidence, to evaluate a speaker's point of view, as an audio recording is played in partnership and/or teacher-led small groups	Listening-Centered Activity: Organize preidentified words and phrases on a T-chart that compares and contrasts sound reasoning and evidence with fallacious reasoning and distorted evidence, to evaluate a speaker's point of view, as an audio recording is played in partnership and/or small groups	Listening-Centered Activity: Organize phrases and sentences on a partially completed T-chart that compares and contrasts sound reasoning and evidence with fallacious reasoning and distorted evidence, to evaluate a speaker's point of view, as an audio recording is played in partnership, small group and/or whole class settings	Listening-Centered Activity: Organize information on a T-chart that compares and contrasts sound reasoning and evidence with fallacious reasoning and distorted evidence, to evaluate a speaker's point of view, as an audio recording is played in partnership, small group and/or whole class settings	Listening-Centered Activity: Organize information when taking notes independently, to compare and contrast sound reasoning and evidence with fallacious reasoning and distorted evidence, to evaluate a speaker's point of view, as an audio recording is played in partnership, small group and/or whole class settings
	Reading-Centered Activity: Organize pretaught words and phrases on a T-chart that identifies the speaker's main idea(s), sound reasoning and evidence, to identify and evaluate evidence used by the speaker, when reading a speech or position paper in the new and/or the home language.	Reading-Centered Activity: Organize preidentified words and phrases on a T-chart that identifies the speaker's main idea(s), sound reasoning and evidence, to identify and evaluate evidence used by the speaker, when reading a speech or position paper in the new and/or the home language.	Reading-Centered Activity: Organize phrases and sentences on a partially completed T-chart that identifies the speaker's main idea(s), sound reasoning and evidence, to identify and evaluate evidence used by the speaker, when reading a speech or position paper in the new and, occasionally, in the home language.	Reading-Centered Activity: Organize information on a T-chart that identifies the speaker's main idea(s), sound reasoning and evidence, to identify and evaluate evidence used by the speaker, when reading a speech or position paper in the new language.	Reading-Centered Activity: Organize information in a note-taking guide, independently, to identify and evaluate the speaker's main idea(s), sound reasoning and evidence used, when reading a speech or position paper in the new language.

Draft

NLAP Speaking and Listening (SL)

SL.9–10.3

page 14

Support Examples

Sensory Supports	Graphic Supports	Interactive Supports
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Real-life objects (realia)</li> <li>• Manipulatives</li> <li>• Pictures &amp; photographs</li> <li>• Illustrations, diagrams &amp; drawings</li> <li>• Magazines &amp; newspapers</li> <li>• Physical activities</li> <li>• Videos &amp; Films</li> <li>• Broadcasts</li> <li>• Models &amp; figures</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Charts</li> <li>• Graphic organizers</li> <li>• Tables</li> <li>• Graphs</li> <li>• Timelines</li> <li>• Number lines</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• In pairs or partners</li> <li>• In triads or small groups</li> <li>• In a whole group</li> <li>• Using cooperative group structures</li> <li>• With the Internet (Web sites) or software programs</li> <li>• In the native language (L1)</li> <li>• With mentors</li> </ul>
WiDA Consortium Intro to WiDA ELD Standards 35

Targets of Measurement: Writing

Claim	Anchor	Target of Measurement	Language Purpose/Function/Characteristics
GENERAL CLAIM 1 Students can structure thoughts and ideas in writing.	ANCHOR 1 Students can create and structure a written text.	TOM.W.9–12.1 Students can use grade-appropriate language to orient the reader, logically organize and connect ideas, and provide closure in a written text.	produce: a clear introduction or orientation ideas presented and connected in an organized manner concluding words or phrases
	ANCHOR 2 Students can adapt vocabulary appropriately when writing.	TOM.W.9–12.2 Students can use grade-appropriate words and phrases, including grade-level Tier 2 and Tier 3 words, to precisely describe detailed ideas and facts in a written text.	provide or describe: an individual, an event, a place, or an idea precisely precise, relevant details precise, relevant facts, claims, or evidence grade-level Tier 2 and Tier 3 words to explain ideas, claims, or evidence
GENERAL CLAIM 2 Students can write about literary and informational texts and topics.	ANCHOR 3 Students can create a narrative written text.	TOM.W.9–12.3 Students can use grade-appropriate language to provide or refer to multiple characters, well-chosen details, sequenced events, and closure to develop a narrative text.	establish or develop: narrative elements (a narrator, characters, setting, events, situation) well-chosen descriptive details to create precise images a well-sequenced, cohesive narrative closure to a narrative
	ANCHOR 4 Students can create an informational written text.	TOM.W.9–12.4 Students can use grade-appropriate language to provide precise, well-chosen, cohesive claims and evidence; a variety of support; and closure to develop an informational text.	produce or develop: a topic with claims and evidence well-chosen evidence (facts and details) to support a claim or an opinion logical transitions and connections between ideas to create cohesion closure to a topic

Writing

2016 WRITING Performance Level Descriptions – Grades 9–12
GENERAL CLAIM 2 Students can write about literary and informational texts and topics.	Entering	Emerging	Transitioning	Expanding	Commanding
Anchor 3 Students can develop a narrative written text.	Student may use words or short phrases to provide a character, a detail, an event, or closure to develop a narrative text.	Student can use words, phrases, and simple sentences to provide or refer to characters, details, events, or closure to develop a narrative text.	Student can use phrases, simple sentences, and occasionally expanded and/or complex sentences to provide or refer to multiple characters, details, sequenced events, and/or closure to develop a narrative text.	Student can use simple, expanded, and/or complex sentences to provide or refer to multiple characters, well-chosen details, sequenced events, and closure to develop a narrative text.	Student can use a variety of simple, expanded, and complex sentences to sufficiently provide or refer to multiple characters, well-chosen details, sequenced events, and closure to develop a narrative text.
Target of Measurement 3  Students can use grade-appropriate language to provide or refer to multiple characters, well-chosen details, sequenced events, and closure to write a narrative.	Writing lacks development of characters, details, events, or closure.  Writing includes numerous errors; errors may totally obscure meaning.	Writing includes basic development of characters, details, events, or closure.  Writing includes frequent errors; errors may obscure meaning.	Writing includes limited development of multiple characters, details, sequenced events, and/or closure.  Writing includes frequent errors; errors may obscure meaning.	Writing includes partial development of multiple characters, well-chosen details, sequenced events, and closure.  Writing includes occasional errors; errors do not obscure meaning.	Writing includes sufficient development of multiple characters, well-chosen details, sequenced events, and closure.  Writing includes infrequent errors; errors do not obscure meaning.
Anchor 4 Students can develop an informational written text.	Student may use words or short phrases to provide a claim or closure to develop an informational text.	Student can use words, phrases, and simple sentences to provide a claim, some support, or closure to develop an informational text.	Student can use phrases, simple sentences, and occasionally expanded and/or complex sentences to provide cohesive claims and evidence, a variety of support, and/or closure to develop an informational text.	Student can use simple, expanded, and/or complex sentences to provide well-chosen, cohesive claims and evidence; a variety of support; and closure to develop an informational text.	Student can use a variety of simple, expanded, and complex sentences to sufficiently provide precise, well-chosen, cohesive claims and evidence; a variety of support; and closure to develop an informational text.
Target of Measurement 4  Students can use grade-appropriate language to provide precise, well-chosen, cohesive claims and evidence, a variety of support, and closure to write about a topic.	Writing lacks development of claims and evidence, support, or closure.  Writing includes numerous errors; errors may totally obscure meaning.	Writing includes basic development of claims and evidence, support, or closure.  Writing includes frequent errors; errors may obscure meaning.	Writing includes limited development of cohesive claims and evidence, a variety of support, and/or closure.  Writing includes frequent errors; errors may obscure meaning.	Writing includes partial development of well-chosen, cohesive claims and evidence; a variety of support; and closure.  Writing includes occasional errors; errors do not obscure meaning.	Writing includes sufficient development of precise, well-chosen, cohesive claims and evidence; a variety of support; and closure.  Writing includes infrequent errors; errors do not obscure meaning.

02/09/15, rev. 9/30/2015

New Language Progressions-Writing

5 Levels of Language Development	Entering (Beginner)	Emerging (Low Intermediate)	Transitioning (High Intermediate)	Expanding (Advanced)	Commanding (Proficient)
PRODUCTIVE  Oracy and Literacy Links	Speaking-Centered Activity: Use pretaught words and phrases and the previously completed graphic organizers to complete sentence starters that describe the experiences, events and/or characters of a real or imagined experience, when speaking in partnership and/or teacher-led small groups	Speaking-Centered Activity: Use preidentified words and phrases and the previously completed graphic organizers to complete sentence starters that describe the experiences, events and/or characters of a real or imagined experience, when speaking in partnership and/or small groups	Speaking-Centered Activity: Use a word bank to describe the experiences, events and/or characters of a real or imagined experience, when speaking in partnership, small group and/or whole class settings	Speaking-Centered Activity: Use a glossary to describe the experiences, events and/or characters of a real or imagined experience, when speaking in partnership, small group and/or whole class settings	Speaking-Centered Activity: Use information, independently , to describe the experiences, events and/or characters of a real or imagined experience, when speaking in partnership, small group and/or whole class settings
	Writing-Centered Activity: Use pretaught words and phrases to complete well-structured cloze narrative paragraphs that use formal narrative techniques and precise, sensory language to describe real or imagined events supported by relevant, specific and compelling details	Writing-Centered Activity: Use preidentified words and phrases to write two or more well-structured narrative paragraphs that use formal narrative techniques and precise, sensory language to describe real or imagined events supported by relevant, specific and compelling details	Writing-Centered Activity: Use a word bank and previously completed graphic organizers to develop a well-structured short narrative essay that uses formal narrative techniques and precise, sensory language to describe real or imagined events supported by relevant, specific and compelling details	Writing-Centered Activity: Use a glossary and teacher-provided models to develop a well-structured narrative essay that uses formal narrative techniques and precise, sensory language to describe real or imagined events supported by relevant, specific and compelling details	Writing-Centered Activity: Use information, independently , to develop a well-structured multiple paragraph narrative essay that uses formal narrative techniques and precise, sensory language to describe real or imagined events supported by relevant, specific and compelling details in the new and/or the home language .	in the new and/or the home language .	in the new and, occasionally, in the home language .	in the new language .	in the new language .

Shaded columns come from the Progressions, Rest from the Performance Level Descriptions and Targets or Measurement.

Shaded columns come from the Progressions; KPS from the Performance Level Descriptions and Targets of Measurement.

Speaking (9-12)
Communicative Function: contributes to a conversation, conveys relevant details, asks questions, clarifies information, provides details, facts, describes phenomena, contributes to a conversation/discussion, paraphrases information, retells or narrates a story or a process in sequence, presents main points in a coherent manner, expresses an opinion or claim supported by reasons, conveys reliability of information or evidence presented, justifies response, analyzes a topic or evaluates evidence
Proficiency Levels	Language Expectations	Errors	Vocabulary Targets	Type of Support Scaffolds	Partnerships	Level of Support
Entering Some ToMs not applicable	Uses a few words Short phrases Predictable sentences	Response may contain errors that totally obscure meaning	Use common Tier 1 and grade level Tier 2 words and short phrases	Use sentence starters with or without graphics; New and home language	Partnerships Teacher-led groups	Substantial support
Emerging	Uses phrases and simple sentences	Response may contain errors in words and structure that mostly obscure meaning	Use words and short phrases including common grade level Tier 2 words; Describe ideas and facts	Use previously completed graphic organizer, T chart New language	Partnerships Small Groups Whole Class	Limited Support
Transitioning	Uses simple sentences and expanded sentences	Response may contain errors in words and structure that partially obscure meaning	Use words and phrases including a few grade level Tier 2 & 3 words; Describe detailed ideas and facts	Use word bank; graphics New and home language	Partnerships Small Groups Whole Class	Largely Independent
Expanding	Uses simple, expanded or complex sentences	Response may contain some errors in words and structure that minimally obscure meaning	Use words and phrases including grade level Tier 2 & 3 words; Describe detailed ideas and facts	Use previously completed graphic organizer, T chart New language	Partnerships Small Groups Whole Class	No Support Needed
Commanding	Uses a variety of simple, expanded and complex sentences and fluid language	Response contains few or no errors in word choice and structure that obscure meaning	Use words and phrases including grade level Tier 2 and 3 words; Offer precisely detailed descriptions	Use knowledge of the topic or text independently; New language	Small groups Whole class	No Support Needed

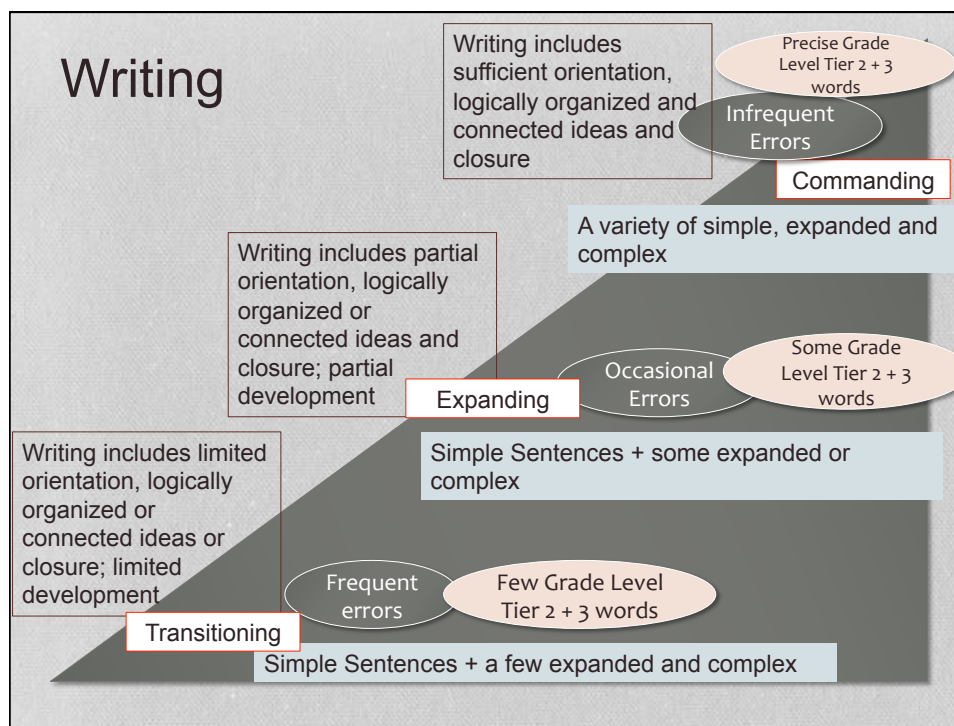

How do the scaffolds and supports change for Speaking?

* Shaded columns come from the Progressions; Rest from the Performance Level Descriptions and Targets of Measurement

Writing (9-12)
Communicative Function: create and structure a written text; provide an orientation or an idea; express opinions, sequence, describe, detail ideas, orient, organize, connect ideas, provide claims and evidence, facts, provide closure, explain, develop a narrative; development of claims and evidence; characters, details, events, closure
Proficiency Levels	Language Expectations	Errors	Organization	Vocabulary Targets	Type of Support Scaffolds	Teaching Arrangements	Level of Support
Entering Some ToMs not applicable	A few words Short phrases Predictable sentences	Writing includes frequent errors; errors may obscure meaning	Writing includes limited orientation, logically organized or connected ideas, and/or closure; limited development	Use common Tier 1 and grade level Tier 2 words and short phrases; Give ideas and facts	Structure thoughts and ideas; Close paragraph New or home language	Partnerships Teacher-led groups	Substantial support
Emerging	Uses phrases and simple sentences	Writing includes occasional errors; errors do not obscure meaning	Writing includes partial orientation, logically organized and connected ideas and closure, partial development	Use words and phrases including a few grade level Tier 2 & 3 words; Describe detailed ideas and facts	Write one to two paragraphs; New or home language	Partnerships Small groups	Moderate Support
Transitioning	Most phrases, simple sentences and a few expanded or complex sentences	Writing includes frequent errors; errors may obscure meaning	Writing includes limited orientation, logically organized or connected ideas, and/or closure; limited development	Use words and phrases including a few grade level Tier 2 & 3 words; Describe detailed ideas and facts	Use a word bank or graphic organizer to write a short essay; New or home language	Partnerships Small groups Whole class	Limited Support
Expanding	Most simple or some expanded or complex sentences	Writing includes occasional errors; errors do not obscure meaning	Writing includes partial orientation, logically organized and connected ideas and closure, partial development	Include some grade level Tier 2 & 3 words; Describe detailed ideas and facts	Use a teacher-provided model and graphic organizers to write an essay; New language	Partnerships Small groups	Largely Independent
Commanding	A variety of simple, expanded and complex sentences	Writing includes infrequent errors; errors do not obscure meaning	Writing includes sufficient orientation, logically organized ideas and closure	Use words and phrases including grade level Tier 2 & 3 words; Give precisely detailed descriptions	Use knowledge of the topic independently to write a multiple-page essay; New language	Partnerships Small groups Independently	No Support Needed

How do language expectations, errors, organization, vocabulary change for Writing?

Nancy Cloud, Ed.D., 2016; Nancycloud2@gmail.com

Things I Can Use to Move Kids Forward:

RECEPTIVE:

- In-classroom supports to help them capture information through listening and reading
- Time to process information; chances to work with peers and the teacher to be sure they receive the information
- Teach strategies for capturing information through listening and reading (focused listening, code the text)
- Provide plentiful practice opportunities

EXPRESSIVE

- Offer tools to support them in expressing themselves well (graphic organizers, notes, templates)
- Offer editing checklists; writers tools (thesaurus), guides
- Provide models, demonstrations, coaching
- Use close reading to expand, refine language; dig into language

What Background Information do ELLs Need to Understand to Understand the Dust Bowl?

Frontloading the Unit: Building Needed Background Knowledge About the Dust Bowl States, US History and Geography; Topography

- Location of the Midwest (map skills); States Affected
- Westward Movement, Migration (tie to their own)
- The Great Depression and Recovery Efforts (hardships and resiliency)
- Franklin D. Roosevelt (US Presidents)
- Dust Bowl Photographers/Documentary Efforts (women in history; role of film/photographs)
- Conservation Efforts (ties to science of soil conservation)
- Crops Grown in the Midwest (importance of the wheat crop)

Use Dust Bowl Literature, Informational Texts, and Multimedia to work on Academic Listening and Writing Skills

- Ability to capture detail in English when listening to read alouds or to multimedia presentations (different regional speakers of English, speeches from the 1930's, recorded texts)
- Ability to jot down notes when listening
- Ability to capture/interpret new words from context; use listening activities to cue vocabulary to work on
- Ability to write across the genre
- Expanding sentence types, text organizational skills
- Expanding academic vocabulary (Tier 2, 3)
- Decreasing errors (editing strategies)

And Note Taking

Supporting Academic Listening for ELLs

Chapter 7

Note Taking: Evidence of Listening Comprehension

Note Making	Note Taking
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Students record notes from printed materials               <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>During reading</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Students record notes from information presented orally               <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>During teachers' lectures</li> <li>From multimedia viewed</li> <li>During class discussion</li> </ul> </li> </ul>
Reviewing Students' Notes Can Show Us What They are Capturing
Which one do you think we work on more?

Factors that Affect Listening for L2 Learners

- Teacher/Student rate of speech
- Teacher/Student volume of speech
- Anxiety/Nervousness
- Background noise
- Distractions from classmates
- Other environmental and acoustical factors

Think about it

How Can You Help?

Processing Words and Phrases

A World of problems

Pages 145-146

Think about it

How Can You Help?

- ELLs may capture the words but not necessarily know how to write them down
- ELLs may not recognize the words being used and therefore have no ability to capture them or write them down
- ELLs may tune out from time to time or be so busy writing one thought that they lose the others

Facilitating Note Taking In Class: Nine Steps for Helping Students Take Better Notes

Before a Note-Taking Exercise

1. Provide students with a standard system of heading their notes.
2. Provide instruction on shorthand and abbreviation techniques.
3. Instruct students on how to recognize a teacher's signal words.

During a Note-Taking Exercise

4. Alter your speech, delivery, and vocabulary.
5. Use visuals.
6. Provide already or partially completed notes.
7. Monitor student progress.

After a Note-Taking Exercise

8. Model how to talk to your notes.
9. Allow students to revise and edit notes.

Pages 153-161

Signal Word Categories	Signal Words	Interpret This As...
Emphasis	mostly, main, important, especially, most importantly, specifically	This is very important. Write this down!
Compare/Contrast	but, although, on the other hand, conversely, though, on the contrary	A contrasting point to note. Write this down!
Cause/Effect	because, as a result, the reason for, due to, led to, created, brought about, hence, consequently, therefore, as a result of this	A detailed explanation that is making connections. Write this down! Make sure you know how it connects to information already provided
Ordinal/sequential, numbers/list	first, second, third, last, finally, ultimately, next	Providing a sequence or timeline. Write each point down! If you miss a point, ask your teacher to repeat that point.

Signal Word Categories	Signal Words	Interpret This As...
Specifics/elaboration	For example, such as, the following, that is to say, furthermore	Only write this down if you need examples or something to clarify the point
Summary	Basically, in short, in brief, in conclusion	Pay attention because this is the big idea (gist), write this down only if you do not have this in your notes already
Repetition	In other words, in addition, let me put that another way	Reinforces a point made, so pay attention. You do not need to write this down.
Hints to write information down  	Here is something you should know, I wouldn't forget this point if I were you, remember this, this is particularly important, there are five things you have to know	This is very important. Write this down! Ask the teacher to repeat if you do not catch everything! Make sure you have this recorded correctly!

Teach Kids
How to Use
Their Notes
When they Study

“Talking to Your Notes”
page 158

- Ask and Answer Questions
- Make Comments; Elaborate on your Notes
- Make Connections
- Circling unknown words
- Underlining/Asterisk
- Exclamation points for important information

Checklist for Summaries

p. 164

- ☐ I used both my revised notes and the teacher's notes to make this summary.
- ☐ I have information in my summary that answers Who? What? Where? Why? And When?
- ☐ I do not have any information that is not needed.
- ☐ I attempted to order the information in a way that makes sense and puts connected ideas together
- ☐ I read other students' summaries and used their work to make mine better.

Engaging in Focused Viewing

PRACTICING ACTIVE LISTENING

Support Academic Listening Comprehension

Gathering Information from Videos

Focused Viewing

What it looked like	What it felt like to be in	How people coped

Word Box
 Dust storm; dust
 Huddle in shacks
 Cloths; gum tape
 Survivors
 Drought, heat
 End of the world
 Black blizzard
 Blot out the sun
 Sand blow, grains of sand, hurt/pain
 Static charge, electricity
 Plagues

Practicing Active Listening with Dictoglos

- Select a short passage/video clip to read aloud or view.
- Teacher reads/plays the selection while students just listen.
- Teacher repeats the selection multiple times for independent note-taking
- Students collaborate to refine notes
- Passage is read/viewed to check for accuracy

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=n-rBhbkvmtm0>

The Dust Bowl was a severe period of drought and dust storms throughout the 1930's. Why did the dust bowl happen? How severe was the damage? The earliest explorers to the Great Plains region of North America determined that the area was unsuitable for agriculture. The territory even became known as the Great American Desert, because the lack of trees and water made the region relatively unattractive for settlement. However, in the decades following the Civil War, farmers began to settle the region and cultivate the fields under the long held, but mistaken belief, that rain will follow the plow. In the first three decades of the 1900's, there were significant and continuous advances in farming technology, including better tractors, mechanized plowing, combines and more.

From 1900 to 1920, the amount of farmland in the plains region doubled, and from 1925 to 1930, the amount of cultivated land tripled. However, farmers of the era used practices, which deprived the soil of its nutrients and increased the possibility of erosion. The heavy plowing had eliminated the natural grasses of the prairie that held the soil in place and maintained moisture. Then in 1930 a severe drought struck the Great Plains region, which lasted nearly the entire decade. The regions affected most by this drought were the panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma, western Kansas and a large portion of Colorado and New Mexico. The more than 1 million acres that was affected became collectively known as the Dust Bowl. As the drought grew worse, the topsoil turned to dust and blew away. The blowing dust generated enormous dust storms that reached as far east as Washington DC. The dust storms became known as black blizzards.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=n-rBhbkvmtm0>

Using Video with ELLs/Emergent Bilinguals

1. Sound off / vision on (silent viewing)

This technique can be used to imitate the language activity about happening on the screen or to concentrate on language production through guessing or prediction tasks.

2. Sound on / vision off

The students can guess the characters, setting, conditions etc.

3. Pause / freeze – frame control

With sound on, the teacher can pause the starting point of every exchange and ask the students to predict words or utterances.

With sound on, the teacher can pause important moments in the plot and ask the students questions about the situation. They can comment on previous actions and predict following ones, too.

The teacher can pause shots of characters' faces and the students can comment on their facial expressions, their feelings, thoughts etc.

Using Video with ELLs

4. Sound and vision on (listening and viewing comprehension)

The students get worksheets beforehand and have to fill it in during viewing

The students get worksheet after the viewing and have to fill in the correct answers or answer questions etc.

The students are looking for specific information

The students are said what are they going to watch and are asked to guess what will they see / hear. After viewing, they can compare their guesses.

The students are given the script and are asked to mark the direct speech

5. Jumbling sequences

The students watch pieces of a sequence in jumbled order and should decide what is the correct order.

6. Split viewing

One half of the students see the sequence without sound, the other half can only hear the sound without pictures. Various activities can follow.

Resource for You: Using Video in the Classroom

THE CHANGING FACE OF LITERACY

Using Video In The Classroom

An Activity Guide

Why Video?

Video is a powerful tool in today's classroom. It provides strong context through which to teach English. Meaning comes alive and it brings the outside world into the classroom and gives your teaching "reality". Video also provides all the paralinguistic features of language that audio only can't.

Nowadays, students are very much visual learners. Further, with the quick spread of broadband internet access, is making the use of video in the classroom much more reliable. Video is a medium which is replacing print – Chris Anderson of TED goes as far as suggesting it is a "revolution" transcending that of the Gutenberg revolution. It is changing both the way we learn and the way we interact with each other.

Without a doubt, video is the future for all of us involved in education. Gone are the days where it took a high degree of technical know how and hours of set up to bring video into the classroom. Now the classroom is wired and connected. It's an exciting time to be both a teacher and a student. The world is our classroom.

PREPARATION: FRONTLOADING LANGUAGE: ALWAYS IMPORTANT FOR ELLS

Word Catcher

DUST STORM VIDEOS TO DEVELOP DESCRIPTIVE VOCABULARY/PHRASES with “PICTURES IN YOUR HEAD”

History Channel.com

<http://www.history.com/topics/dust-bowl/videos#black-blizzard>

(dust storm; blizzard, storm, black, cloud, static electricity, dust, blot out the sun, tower, wind, dirt on the move; dates 1931-1934; disappearance of the grasses; exposure, soil erosion, atmosphere; environmental geography)

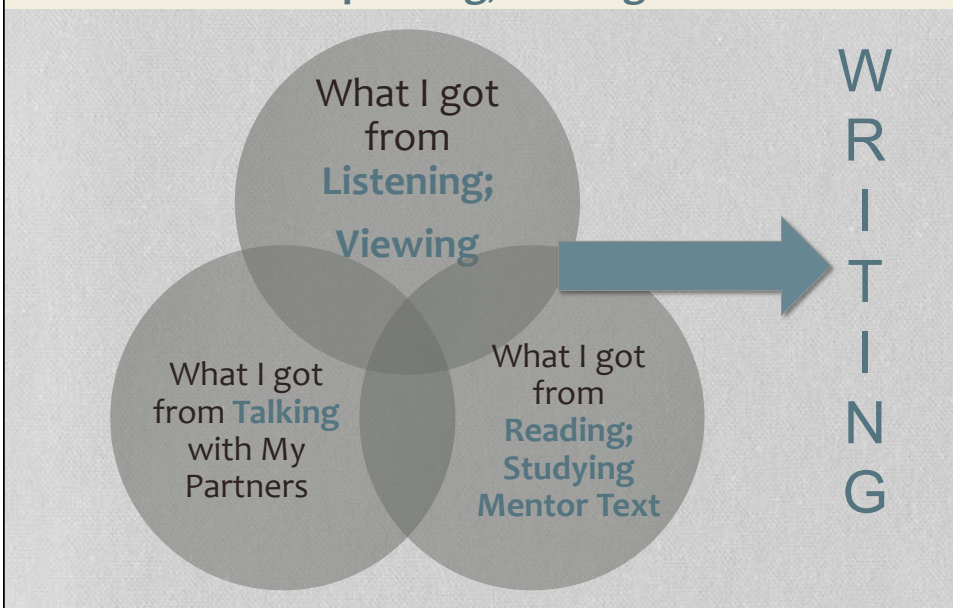

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=x2CiDaUYr90&app=desktop>

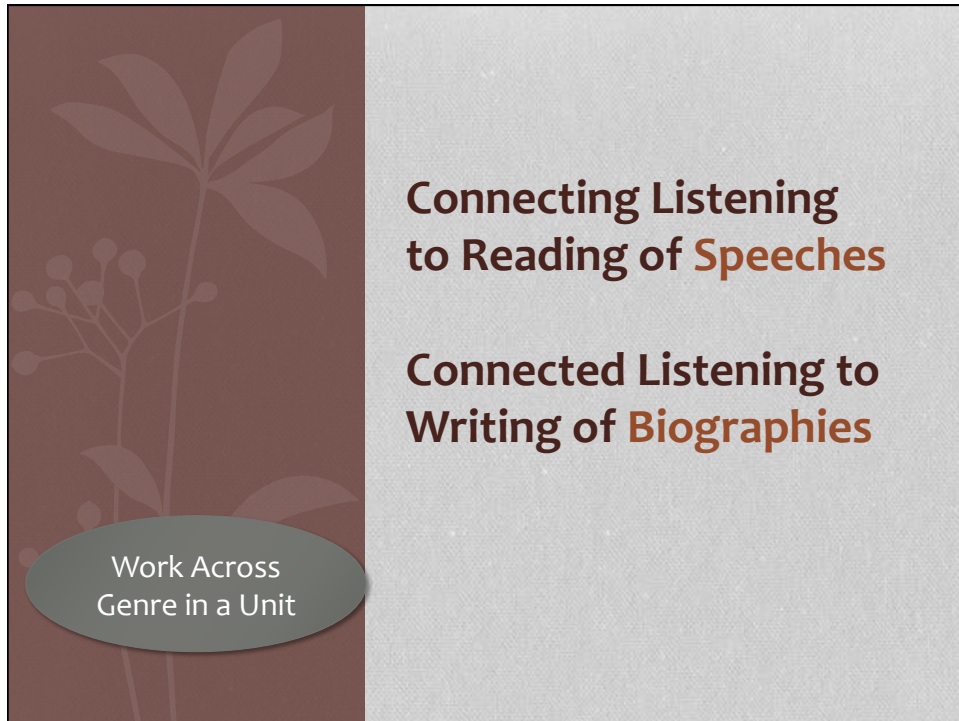

(plow, prairie grass, wheat, farming, topsoil, erosion, drought, wind, failed crops, black blizzard, legends, livestock, exodus, destruction, conserve moisture)

Both videos: dates, measurements (tons, miles)

Create Units with Connected Listening, Reading, Speaking, Writing

Connecting Listening to Reading of Speeches*

Connected Listening to Writing of Biographies*

Work Across Genre in a Unit

Use Leveled Materials to Lead into Original Historic Documents

What is text complexity?

Common Core Model of Text Complexity

Adapted from Appendix A of The CCSS for Literacy and English Language Arts

Quantitative Measures of Text Complexity

These metrics give different weights to the following proxies for semantic and syntactic complexity:

Word Length
Word Frequency
Word Difficulty
Sentence Length
Text Length
Text Cohesion

Research shows that no metric is better than the others at either predicting text difficulty or student performance on tests

ESL Website <http://esl.ncwiseowl.org/>

Quantitative Measures and the CCSS

The CCSS include a staircase of increasing text complexity from elementary through high school keyed against recalibrated Lexile scores

Grade Band	Old Lexile Ranges	CCR Lexile Ranges
2-3	450-725	420-820
4-5	645-845	740-1010
6-8	860-1010	925-1185
9-10	960-1115	1050-1335
11-CCR	1070-1220	1185-1385

ESL Website <http://esl.ncwiseowl.org/>

The image shows a banner for the Newsela website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for 'SIGN IN / REGISTER', 'ABOUT NEWSELA', and category tabs for 'NEWSELA', 'WAR & PEACE', 'MONEY', 'KIDS', and 'SCIENCE'. The main banner features a background image of a person reading a newspaper. Overlaid on this is the text: 'Read closely. Think critically. Be worldly.' Below this text is a paragraph: 'Newsela is an innovative way for students to build reading comprehension with nonfiction that's always relevant: daily news. It's easy and amazing. Register now or learn more about the impact Newsela can have on your classroom.' There are two buttons: a green 'REGISTER NOW' button and a blue circular 'Learn More' button with a downward arrow. At the bottom of the banner, the text 'NEWSELA.COM' is displayed in large, white, bold letters.

Speeches: FDR First Inaugural Address

Lexile 530 (Gr. 2/3)

Famous Speeches: Franklin D. Roosevelt's First Inaugural Address

By Adapted by Newsela staff on 04.15.16
Word Count 1,109

Franklin D. Roosevelt (right) is escorted by President Herbert Hoover in an automobile from the White House to the Capitol in Washington, D.C., to take the oath of office as the new president, March 4, 1933. Photo: Library of Congress

Editor's Note: Franklin D. Roosevelt became president on March 4, 1933. At that time, the country had many troubles. Thousands of banks had failed and many Americans had lost their savings. Millions were out of work. The U.S. dollar was worth less and less. Roosevelt's first speech as president pointed out these problems. More importantly, it outlined a plan to solve them.

Americans know I will speak to them with truth and firmness. The tough times our country is facing requires it. This is right the time to speak the truth. I must speak the truth. We must deal with what is going on in our country today. This great Nation will get better and thrive. The only thing we have to fear is fear itself. This terror we move forward. In every dark hour, leaders have found understanding and support from the people. Without this support we cannot win. I know you will again support me in this important time.

Our country has many problems. Values are bad. Taxes have risen. People are poor. Government does not have enough money. Factories are empty. Farmers have lost their crops. The life savings of thousands of families are gone.

Lexile 780 (Gr. 4/5)

Famous Speeches: Franklin D. Roosevelt's First Inaugural Address

By Adapted by Newsela staff on 04.15.16
Word Count 1,358

Franklin D. Roosevelt (right) is escorted by President Herbert Hoover in an automobile from the White House to the Capitol in Washington, D.C., to take the oath of office as the new president, March 4, 1933. Photo: Library of Congress

Editor's Note: Franklin D. Roosevelt became president on March 4, 1933. At that time, the country was in distress. Thousands of banks had failed and many Americans had lost their savings. Millions were jobless. The value of the U.S. dollar was dropping. Roosevelt's first speech as president pointed out these problems and outlined a plan to overcome them all.

Americans want me to speak to them with truth and firmness. The situation is in requires this truth and firmness. This is the time to speak the truth, frankly and boldly. We must honestly face the problems in our country. The Nation will endure as it has endured in the past. It will get better and all, let me share my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself, unreasonable, unjustified terror stops our efforts to advance. In every national life, leaders have found understanding and support from the people. Without this support, we will not win. I am convinced that you will again give that support to leadership in these critical days.

Speeches: FDR First Inaugural Address

Lexile 530 (Gr. 2/3)

Famous Speeches: Franklin D. Roosevelt's First Inaugural Address

By Adapted by Newsela staff on 04.15.16
Word Count 1,109

How does the text change from 780-1130? Compare page 1 to page 5 in your Text Excerpts Packet—What do you notice?

Franklin D. Roosevelt (right) is escorted by President Herbert Hoover in an automobile from the White House to the Capitol in Washington, D.C., to take the oath of office as the new president, March 4, 1933. Photo: Library of Congress

Editor's Note: By the time Franklin D. Roosevelt became president on March 4, 1933, the United States economy had been shrinking for three years. More than 10 million of the nation's 24,000 banks had failed and Americans who kept their money in banks lost their savings. Millions lost their jobs and the value of the U.S. dollar was dropping. Roosevelt's first speech as president pointed out these problems and outlined a plan to pull the country out of the Great Depression.

I know my fellow Americans expect that as President, I will speak to them truthfully and decisively because of the situation our country is in. This is the time to speak the truth, frankly and boldly. We need not shrink from honestly facing conditions in our country today. This great Nation will endure as it has endured, will revive and will prosper. So, first of all, let me assert my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself—nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror which paralyzes our efforts to progress. In every dark hour of our national life, leaders have found understanding and support from the people. This understanding and support is essential to victory. I am convinced that you will again give that support to leadership in these critical days.

Lexile 1130 (Gr. 9/10)

Famous Speeches: Franklin D. Roosevelt's First Inaugural Address

By Adapted by Newsela staff on 04.15.16
Word Count 1,809

Franklin D. Roosevelt (right) is escorted by President Herbert Hoover in an automobile from the White House to the Capitol in Washington, D.C., to take the oath of office as the new president, March 4, 1933. Photo: Library of Congress

Editor's Note: By the time President Franklin D. Roosevelt was giving his inaugural address on March 4, 1933, the nation had already been in an economic depression for three years. More than 10 million of the nation's 24,000 banks had failed and Americans who kept their money in banks lost their savings. Millions lost their jobs and the value of the U.S. dollar was dropping. Roosevelt's first speech as president pointed out these problems and outlined a plan to pull the country out of the Great Depression.

I am certain that my fellow Americans expect that on my inauguration as President I will speak to them with truth and a decisiveness given the situation our Nation finds itself. Now never we must speak the truth, the whole truth, frankly and boldly. Nor need we shrink from honestly facing conditions in our country today. This great Nation will endure as it has endured, will revive and will prosper. So, first of all, let me assert my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself—nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror which paralyzes needed efforts to change retreat into advance. In every dark hour of our national life, a leadership of frankness and vigor has met with that understanding and support from the people that is essential to victory. I am convinced that you will again give that support to leadership in these critical days.

How do the two texts differ?

- Vocabulary demands—more common everyday vocabulary vs. more technical and less common vocabulary
- Length and complexity of sentences
- Number of clauses
- Verb tenses (simple past tense vs. past progressive, past perfect)
- Directness of sentences vs. indirectness
- Use of academic phrasing common in history texts
- Overall word count
- Familiarity with the formulaic phrasing used in formal political speeches

Perfil presidencial: Franklin D. Roosevelt

By White House Historical Association, adaptado por la redacción de Newsela on 07.04.13
Word Count: 789

Franklin Delano Roosevelt asumió la presidencia de Estados Unidos cuando la Gran Depresión se encontraba en su peor momento. Durante ese tiempo, había mucha gente desempleada, la población no tenía dinero y estaba desanimada. Roosevelt ayudó a los estadounidenses a recuperar la fe en sí mismos y trajo consigo esperanza, prometiendo acción rápida y vigorosa. En su discurso inaugural afirmó que "a lo único que debemos temer es al miedo".

Nacido en 1882 en Hyde Park, Nueva York, Roosevelt fue el único hijo de un matrimonio adinerado y tuvo una vida llena de privilegios. Estudió en Harvard University y en la Facultad de Derecho de Columbia University. El día de San Patricio, en 1905, se casó con su prima lejana, Eleanor Roosevelt.

Roosevelt se recupera de pollo y se hace gobernador

Siguiendo el ejemplo de su primo, el Presidente Theodore Roosevelt, por quien sentía gran admiración, Franklin Roosevelt entró al servicio público por medio de la política, pero como demócrata, mientras que Theodore era republicano. Ganó la elección al Senado de Nueva York en 1910. El Presidente Woodrow Wilson lo nombró subsecretario de la marina de guerra y fue el candidato demócrata para vicepresidente en 1920.

Spanish
Version

Franklin D. Roosevelt's First Inaugural Address: Listening while Reading (Doubling the Input)

Listening to Speeches

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7nSgMWW-808> (18 mins)

- <http://www.history.com/speeches/franklin-d-roosevelts-first-inaugural-address>

Full address:

<http://www.presidency.ucsb.edu/ws/?pid=14473>

<http://teachingamericanhistory.org/library/document/first-inaugural-address-36/>

List Tier 2 Words You Hear While Listening

On March 3, 1933, the newly elected president of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, promises a country battered by the Great Depression a renewed prosperity, setting forth plans to put the government to work.

4 minutes Franklin D. Roosevelt's First Inaugural Address

COMMON CORE

THE WHEATLEY PORTFOLIO

■ TEXT STUDY

“First Inaugural Address”

BY FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, MARCH 4, 1933

MAP Grade 9 • Unit 2
UNIT The Novel-Honor
TYPE Informational Text (Lexile 1190L)

OVERVIEW • TEXT-DEPENDENT QUESTIONS • ASSESSMENT

OVERVIEW

RATIONALE

Franklin Delano Roosevelt delivered this speech at a pivotal point in American history. The nation was in crisis. The crash of the financial markets and the banking industry in 1929 impacted businesses across all regions of the country. The resulting wide-scale unemployment led to a crisis of confidence in the business community as well as individual hardship. The failure of banks hit families hard as life savings were wiped out. The people lost faith in the government's ability to make sound economic decisions. Some even began to question the capitalist system as a whole. In 1932, Roosevelt defeated the incumbent, Herbert Hoover, in a landslide victory. In this inaugural speech, his first address to the American people at this time of crisis, the incoming president laid out his new agenda for his administration. This text is historically significant and provides an excellent demonstration of Roosevelt's use of rhetorical appeals, word choice, and literary devices to relay his message to the American people.

SUGGESTIONS FOR USE

Teachers may read the text aloud or have students complete the initial reading independently. Alternatively, the audio or visual clips of this speech can be found online and shown to the class. This would give students an opportunity to experience the speech as Roosevelt's audience did in 1933. During the first reading or listening, students should develop an overall sense of the speech, and begin to identify the main points Roosevelt wanted to convey to the audience. Upon a subsequent examination, students can begin to annotate for devices that Roosevelt uses to achieve his intended objectives. Before this second reading, teachers could also review rhetorical appeals and literary devices with the students.

■ “First Inaugural Address” by Franklin D. Roosevelt, March 4, 1933

THE WHEATLEY PORTFOLIO

COMMON CORE STATE STANDARDS ALIGNMENT

(a) Focus Standards

Students will practice the following standards through the analysis of the text and the completion of the performance assessment:

SL.9-10.3: Evaluate a speaker's point of view, reasoning, and use of evidence and rhetoric, identifying any fallacious reasoning or exaggerated or distorted evidence.

RI.9-10.1: Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text.

RI.9-10.3: Analyze how the author unfolds an analysis or series of ideas or events, including the order in which the points are made, how they are introduced and developed, and the connections that are drawn between them.

VOCABULARY

Some words from this book may be unfamiliar to students or may be used in a different way than students have seen previously. Possible words for study include:

- candor
- evanescent
- induction
- preeminently
- impel
- frank, frankly, frankness
- curtailment
- markets
- minister (as noun and verb)
- mandate
- strife

© Common Core. All rights reserved. commoncore.org/education

Part of CCSS Grade 9 Unit 2: The Novel--Honor

Literary Texts

*Note: Alternatives to To Kill a Mockingbird are provided. The theme of honor could be considered in any of the texts listed here.*

Novels

- To Kill a Mockingbird (Harper Lee) (E)

Alternative Selections

- The Killer Angels (Michael Shaara) (E)
- All Quiet on the Western Front (Erich Maria Remarque)
- The Color Purple (Alice Walker) (EA)
- Of Mice and Men (John Steinbeck) (EA)
- Black Boy (Richard Wright) (E) Note: This is an exemplar text in grades 11 and 12.

Informational Texts

- Brother, Can You Spare a Dime? The Great Depression of 1929–1933 (Milton Meltzer)
- Only Yesterday (Frederick Lewis Allen) (excerpts, e.g., Chapters XII through XIV)
- First Inaugural Speech, March 4, 1933 (Franklin D. Roosevelt)

■ "First Inaugural Address" by Franklin D. Roosevelt, March 4, 1933

THE WHEATLEY PORTFOLIO

TEXT-DEPENDENT QUESTIONS

Teachers may consider reviewing key content, rhetoric, and analysis terms prior to reading, such as: inaugural address, the Great Depression, nationalism, patriotism, Executive power, ethos, logos, pathos, figurative language, metaphor, repetition, connotation, denotation, allusion, and tone.

- Reread the first two sentences of Roosevelt's speech. What does Roosevelt say the present situation requires him to do when speaking to the American people?
  - Roosevelt believes that the American people expect him to speak honestly about the current situation of the nation.
  - This is supported by use of the word candor, which means honesty and sincerity.
- Roosevelt says this inaugural address is "preeminently the time" to speak the truth to the American people. Why would this instance be different than any other time?
  - Preeminently means first or foremost.
  - The inaugural address is the first time that Roosevelt addressed the American people as their president and this speech sets the tone for his presidency.
  - He is saying to the people that given the crisis situation, it is time that the leaders are honest with the citizens of the country.
- In his first paragraph, Roosevelt uses both the pronouns "them" and "we" in reference to his audience. When does he use these pronouns and what is the desired effect of using different pronouns at different places in the paragraph?
  - Roosevelt uses "them" in the first sentence in reference to his audience of the American people. The use of this word separates Roosevelt from his audience and demonstrates that he knows his audience has expectations of him as their leader.
  - Roosevelt uses "we" and "our" through the rest of the first paragraph. His use of these pronouns suggests that he is a part of the American people and demonstrates his belief that the nation's citizens should face the challenges ahead of them together.
- What does Roosevelt state that Americans should fear? Why would he choose to begin his speech by addressing the citizens' fears?
  - Roosevelt says that "...the only thing we [Americans] have to fear is fear itself..."
  - He is acting like a parent, attempting to calm the fears of the public about the state of the country, as a parent would calm the fears of a child.
  - By using "we" he avoids a patronizing tone that might be inferred otherwise.
  - This statement means that the American people should only be afraid of allowing their fear to impede their efforts to fix the economic problems facing the country.
  - They must overcome this psychological roadblock before they can begin to take physical action.
  - Members of the audience should feel reassured when the president says that the challenges ahead are not so difficult that they will not be able to overcome them. In addition, they may feel that they have to overcome their fear of what will happen next and focus on supporting others and the country's leadership.

■ "First Inaugural Address" by Franklin D. Roosevelt, March 4, 1933

THE WHEATLEY PORTFOLIO

- In his opening paragraph, Roosevelt says the American people need "to convert retreat to an advance." What is the denotation and connotation of the word "retreat" in this sentence? A denotation is a word's literal or defined meaning. A connotation is an understood meaning for the word that is different from its definition. What does Roosevelt mean by this statement?
  - Note to teachers: This question provides an opportunity to demonstrate how the same word can have different meanings (denotation vs. connotation), or part of speech (used as a verb versus a noun or adjective), depending on the context.*
  - The definition of the word "retreat" is to move away or move backward, while "advance" is to go forward. (denotation)
  - In the military sense, to retreat means to back away from an enemy or conflict. To advance is to move forward, acquire territory, or engage the enemy.
  - The connotation of "retreat" is defeat; the connotation of "advance" is victory or success.
  - Roosevelt suggests that the American people need to change their belief from a sense of defeat or failure into a movement in a more positive direction.
  - Roosevelt plans to "wage a war" on the economic crisis impacting the United States.
  - This use of a military phrase at the beginning of the speech is introduces Roosevelt's use of the war metaphor throughout the rest of the speech.
- In the second paragraph, Roosevelt identifies some of the nation's "common difficulties." He states that "They concern, thank God, only material things." What does he mean by this statement?
  - He is reassuring the people that the problems the country is facing, though serious, are within their power to fix. The American people have the ability to get the country moving again.
  - Roosevelt's use of "common" suggests that he and many others are facing the concerns of rising taxes, declining wages, and national output of industrial and agricultural goods. He is using the rhetorical appeal of ethos because he lists events that many, if not all, Americans have dealt with before his election.
  - Through this list, he demonstrates that he knows specific issues that Americans are facing and he understands their concerns. This persuades the American people to trust him as his knowledge of their problems adds to his credibility as a leader.
- When Roosevelt states, "We are stricken by no plague of locusts," what message is he trying to instill in the minds of his audience?
  - Note to teachers: A possible extension of this question could include reviewing biblical allusions in historical documents, such as the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, as well as in the remainder of Roosevelt's speech.*
  - This statement is an allusion to biblical stories in which devastating plagues were unleashed on specific groups of people or countries who displeased God. In the story, swarms of locusts eat everything in sight, leaving the impacted country destroyed and without resources.
  - Roosevelt is assuring citizens they are not experiencing God's wrath and are not destined for collective punishment. Although the country's resources have been mismanaged and times are difficult, America still has a multitude of resources and gifts. Their ability to recover does not depend on an act of God but on their own determination and resourcefulness.

Questions Continue
18 in Total

© Common Core. All rights reserved. commoncore.org/wheatley

3 © Common Core. All rights reserved. commoncore.org/wheatley

4

■ "First Inaugural Address" by Franklin D. Roosevelt, March 4, 1933

THE WHEATLEY PORTFOLIO

PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENTS

Give students the following writing task:

In this speech, President Roosevelt utilizes a number of different rhetorical appeals and strategies to engage his audience and build support for his plans for the country. Which appeal or strategy does he use the most effectively? Your evidence should include identification of Roosevelt's use of specific rhetorical appeals, analysis of word choice, tone, and other literary devices.

Your response should:

- Have a clear claim that provides an analysis, not a summary, of the speech.
- Use specific examples of the techniques used in the speech to support your claim.
- Use words, phrases, or clauses to link the major sections of your text.
- Avoid colloquial or casual language to create a formal tone.
- Provide a concluding statement that supports the arguments presented.
- Be proofread to ensure correct grammar, punctuation, and spelling.

<http://greatminds.net/maps/documents/09.02.RI.1933 Inaugural 0802.pdf>

THE WHEATLEY PORTFOLIO

Flocabulary

<https://www.flocabulary.com/unit/the-great-depression/video/>
(FDR Speech snippet)

https://www.flocabulary.com/topics/geography/Resources for Social Studies/History Teachers

Intensifying the Message with Rap/Chants

WRITING BIOGRAPHIES:

READING TO WRITE

LISTENING TO WRITE

President Franklin Delano Roosevelt greet drought-stricken farmers in North Dakota, 1936.

Biography

Lexile 600 (Gr. 3)

Presidential Profile: Franklin D. Roosevelt

By White House Historical Association, adapted by Newsela staff on 07.04.13
Word Count 531

Official Presidential portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt Photo: Frank O. Salisbury/White House

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was born in 1882 in New York. His family was rich. He attended Harvard University and Columbia Law School. In 1905, he married his distant cousin, Eleanor Roosevelt.

Franklin Roosevelt wanted to be like one of his other cousins, President Theodore Roosevelt. Franklin won his first election in 1910 and became a senator in New York. In 1920, Roosevelt wanted to be vice president. He did not win that election.

Roosevelt Works Through Tough Times

When Franklin Roosevelt was 39 years old, he became very sick. He had an illness that can leave people unable to walk or move. Roosevelt was very brave. He swam a lot. The workouts helped him get his legs moving. At the 1921 Convention, he surprised everyone. He walked in using crutches. He became governor of New York.

Lexile 870 (Gr. 4-5)

Presidential Profile: Franklin D. Roosevelt

By White House Historical Association, adapted by Newsela staff on 07.04.13
Word Count 651

Official Presidential portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt Photo: Frank O. Salisbury/White House

In the middle of the Great Depression, when millions of Americans were out of work and the United States was badly struggling, Franklin Delano Roosevelt was elected president. Roosevelt helped the American people with his many ideas. He brought hope and promised immediate action.

When he became president, Roosevelt said in a famous speech that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Polio Did Not Hold Him Back

Born in 1882 in New York, Roosevelt was an only child. His parents were very rich and he attended Harvard University and Columbia Law School. On St. Patrick's Day, 1905, he married his distant cousin Eleanor Roosevelt.

Franklin Roosevelt greatly admired one of his other cousins, President Theodore Roosevelt, and so Franklin ran for office, too. He was elected to the New York Senate in 1910. President Woodrow Wilson appointed him assistant secretary of the Navy. In 1920, he was the Democratic candidate for vice president.

Warm Up:
Preparation for the
Audio Input

Biography

Lexile 838 (Gr. 4-5) Work with a Partner Compare the Headings on Page 9-10 to pages 11-12

By White House Historical Association, adapted by Newsela staff on 07.04.13
Word Count 838

Official Presidential portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt Photo: Frank O. Salisbury/White House

Franklin Delano Roosevelt became president during the worst of the Great Depression. It was a time when many people were out of work and the United States was in a financial slump. Franklin D. Roosevelt helped the American people restore their faith in themselves. He brought hope and promised immediate, strong action.

At the beginning of his presidency, he said that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Privileged Early Years

Born in 1882 in Hyde Park, New York, Roosevelt was an only child of wealthy parents. He lived a privileged life and attended Harvard University and Columbia Law School. On St. Patrick's Day, 1905, he married his distant cousin Eleanor Roosevelt.

Franklin Roosevelt greatly admired one of his other cousins, President Theodore Roosevelt, who had so Franklin ran for office, too. He was elected to the New York Senate in 1910. President Woodrow Wilson appointed him assistant secretary of the Navy. In 1920, he was the Democratic candidate for vice president.

Lexile 1100 (Gr. 10-11)

Presidential Profile: Franklin D. Roosevelt

By White House Historical Association, adapted by Newsela staff on 07.04.13
Word Count 838

Official Presidential portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt Photo: Frank O. Salisbury/White House

Franklin Delano Roosevelt became president during the worst of the Great Depression. It was a time when many people were out of work and the United States was in a deep economic slump. Franklin D. Roosevelt helped the American people restore their faith in themselves and brought hope as he promised prompt, strong action. In his inaugural address at the beginning of his presidency, he said that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Born in 1882 in Hyde Park, New York, Franklin was an only child of extremely wealthy parents and lived a privileged life. He attended Harvard University and Columbia Law School. On St. Patrick's Day, 1905, he married his 5th cousin Eleanor Roosevelt.

Overcomes Polio, Becomes Governor

When Franklin Roosevelt was 39 years old, he became very sick. He had an illness that can leave people unable to walk or move. Roosevelt was very brave. He swam a lot. The workouts helped him get his legs moving. At the 1921 Convention, he surprised everyone. He walked in using crutches. He became governor of New York.

Warm Up:
Preparation for the
Audio Input

Listen to Video Bio After Reading

How Could The Readings Help Your Understanding of the Video?

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qK42SUseTwM>

5 minute bio

Possible Listening Activities to Do After Listening to the Multimedia Bio:

- Circle words or phrases that were used in the biography
- Listen for the main life events (jot them down as you hear them)
- Order life events as a post-listening activity
- Relay the facts you captured to a partner; partner add details
- Circle facts/details you heard in the audio from a list created by the teacher
- Three truths and a lie: Identify the lie/truths

Use a Historical Figure's Biography as a Model for Writing a Biography of Another Notable Person

Layer the Input: Listen then Read then Write
The Value of Repeated Practice for ELLs

video

<https://www.c-span.org/video/?402657-1/dorothea-lange-photography-social-commentary>

14:42 But only play first part through her work in the Dust Bowl (to 5:57)

PHOTOJOURNALIST

Dorothea Lange's work-American Masters PBS

<https://m.youtube.com/watch?v=Fj-hCwQgJ4g>

Photographer Dorothea Lange and her husband were among the first to witness and to understand the causes of the huge migration to California in the 1930s: families were escaping the Dust Bowl. In this film excerpt, Lange talks about the first car she photographed before the country realized what was happening. American Masters' Dorothea Lange (PBS)

Listen and Jot Down Important Details From Her Life

Compare What You Wrote with a Partner

Dorothea Lange: Social Documentary Photographer

<http://www.npr.org/templates/story/story.php?storyId=126289455> audio

Listening to Write

DOROTHEA LANGE
A LIFE BEYOND LIMITS
LINDA GORDON

More Resources: Team Read & Write Oral Presentations in Class to Practice Speaking

- <http://www.theartstory.org/artist-lange-dorothea.htm>
- <http://www.pbs.org/wnet/americanmasters/dorothea-lange-biography-with-photo-gallery/3097/>

PBS Learning Media:

- <http://ri.pbslearningmedia.org/resource/lang14.soc.ushist.dustbowl/documenting-the-dust-bowl/>
- <http://ri.pbslearningmedia.org/resource/lang14.soc.ushist.migmoth/dorothea-lange-migrant-mother/>
- <http://ri.pbslearningmedia.org/resource/pa11.vhssocst.us.prog.lange/picturing-america-dorothea-lange/>
- <https://www.britannica.com/biography/Dorothea-Lange>
- <http://famous-photographers.com/dorothea-lange/>
- http://myhero.com/hero.asp?hero=d\_lange

Types of Writing to Work On (CCSS)

EXPLANATORY/INFORMATIONAL

- Explanatory articles about given subjects/topics
- Telling/retelling
- How to articles
- Recipes
- News stories

Purpose: Explain

DESCRIPTIVE

- Descriptive passages—describe places, people, events, situations or locations in a highly detailed manner
- Poetry
- Journal or diary writing
- Nature writing

Purpose: Describe in Detail

Types of Writing to Work On (CCSS)

ARGUMENT/PERSUASION

- Taking a stand and providing reasons, arguments and justifications for that stand
- Opinion and editorial newspaper pieces
- Advertisements
- Reviews (books, movies, etc.)
- Letter of recommendation
- Letter of complaint

Purpose: Persuade, Argue

NARRATIVE

- Tell a story or event; has characters and dialogue; events
- Novels
- Short stories
- Poetry
- Autobiographies, biographies
- Anecdotes
- Oral Histories

Purpose: Narrate a story/event

Challenges and Solutions to ELL Writing Success

- Understanding and meeting high expectations (state writing standards)
- Expressing themselves authentically in a new language
- Acquiring basic writing fluency and ease
- Learning English sound-spelling correspondence (with automaticity)

Page 169-172

Other Challenges for ELLs

- Lack of Background Knowledge
- Conventions of English
- Direct Writing Style Used in English (Discourse Patterns)

Solutions: Modifying the Writing Process for ELLs: The Five Mores

Modifying the Writing Process for ELLs Pages 174-177

- More time
  - More time to work on and conference about assignments
  - More time to revise and edit with support
- More Models
- More Focused Editing
- More Welcoming, Flexible Publication
  - Sharing a “golden line”
  - A favorite passage or paragraph
  - The entire piece

*Tools For Our Writing
Teacher
Toolbox to Use with ELLs*

Solutions:
Models, Demonstrations

Word Boxes; Vocabulary Notebooks

Graphic Organizers

Sentence Frames; Sentence Starters

Paragraph/Essay Frames

Guides and Checklists

Solutions: Using Graphic Organizers to Deconstruct Text and Later to Guide Writing

MATCH THE TEXT STRUCTURE

Chronological (Time Sequence)

Cause/Effect

Problem/Solution

Description

Enumeration

Comparison/Contrast

Sequence Chain

Title: _____ Author: _____ Illustrator: _____
CHARACTERS _____ _____ _____		SETTING Place: _____ Time: _____
1. _____	2. _____	3. _____
4. _____	5. _____	6. _____

NAME: _____

Copyright © 2006 Pearson Achievement Solutions. "Sequence Chain." Co-nect Professional Development. <<http://exchange.co-nect.net>>

Pearson
Achievement
Solutions

Other Visuals to Provide An Understanding of the Writing Task

Narrative/Short Story

FIGURE 8.3 Plot line graphic

Remind students that they must first learn the conventions of the genre and then engage in repeated practice of its basic structure in order to improve their writing and work toward mastery. (See Figure 8.4 for instruction and assessment ideas.)

Narrative/Short Story Checklist

1. Plot
  - You introduce the character(s) and a problem situation or conflict.
  - There are a series of events (two or more) related to the problem or conflict.
  - The events lead toward suspense and anticipation for the reader.
  - There is a climax or turning point for the main character.
  - There is a conclusion of events.
2. Setting
  - There is a place, location where the events happen.
  - There is time (may be general or specific) when the events happen.
3. Characters
  - There is one or more main characters—living things.
  - Characters think, act, and talk to move the story.
  - There is a consistent point of view.
4. Theme
  - There is a point or meaning to the story.

Poetry/Imitation Writing

A relatively easy way to get students writing, and introduce them to poetry at the same time, is through imitation writing. In imitation writing, students use an author's piece and particular style as a model to create their own individual pieces of prose or poetry. Imitation writing can be used with any genre, though it usually works better with creative genres. Choose pieces with a lot of sensory imagery and literary devices or pieces with a strong pattern that students can pick up on, adapt, and copy.

Narrative/
Short Story
Checklist
p. 186

Do Not Copy

Graphic Organizer

For Drafting

Name _____ Date _____

Story Map 2
Write notes in each section.

Setting:
Where:
When:

Major Characters:
Minor Characters:

Plot/Problem:

Event 1:      Event 2:      Event 3:

Outcome:

FIGURE 8.4 Narrative/short story rubric

Criteria (Standards)	4 Exceeds Proficiency	3 Meets Proficiency	2 Approaching Proficiency	1 Substantially Below Proficient	Comments
Plot Includes the following: • Character(s) and a problem situation or conflict. • A series of events related to the problem or conflict and leading toward suspense and anticipation. • A climax or turning point for the main character. • A conclusion of events.	Story follows an original, believable, clear, and easy-to-understand plot line that includes well-developed characters, a series of events, a suspenseful climax, and a credible conclusion.	Story follows a believable, clear, and easy-to-understand plot line that includes developed characters, a series of events, a climax, and a conclusion.	Story includes most of the plot points—one or more plot points (characters, events, climax, conclusion) are confusing or missing.	Story includes only a couple of the plot points—two or more plot points (characters, events, climax, conclusion) are confusing or missing.
Setting Includes the following: • A place, location where the events happen. • A time (may be general or specific) when the events happen.	Time and place are clear, original, and described, and appropriate to the plot, includes some description, sensory imagery.	Time and place are clear and fit the plot, and are described in the story, attempts at description, sensory imagery.	Either time or place is confusing or hard to understand or lacking enough detail to be known.	Time and place are confusing or hard to understand or lacking enough detail to be known.
Character Includes the following: • There is one or more main characters—living things. • Characters think, act, and talk to move the story. • There is a consistent point of view.	Characters are original and believable, are well developed through thoughts, actions, and dialogue, and move the story; point of view is fitting and consistent.	Characters are believable, developed through thoughts, actions, and dialogue, and move the story; point of view is clear and consistent.	Characters are developed with two of the three characteristics (thoughts, actions, speech) and move the story; POV is inconsistent.	Characters are developed with one of the three characteristics (thoughts, actions, speech); purpose of characters and/or POV is confusing or unclear.
Theme • Includes a point, meaning, or purpose.	The point or meaning of the story is original and very clear (though not necessarily explicitly explained).	The point or meaning of the story is clear (though not necessarily explicitly explained).	There is a vague point or meaning of the story.	The point or meaning of the story is confusing or incomplete.

On Pages 187-188 in Book

Use Checklists and Rubrics

Checklist

Summary (1) and (2)

Summary (1)

- ☐ I included the title of the text.
- ☐ I included the names of the main characters, ideas, and concepts.
- ☐ I wrote 1-3 short sentences or paragraphs about the beginning of the text.
- ☐ I wrote 1-3 short sentences or paragraphs about the middle of the text.
- ☐ I wrote 1-3 short sentences or paragraphs about the end of the text.
- ☐ I used present tense.

Summary (2)

- ☐ Do not write, "I think ...," "I feel ...," or "In my opinion ..."
- ☐ Do not use active phrases, sentences, paragraphs copied from text.
- ☐ Do not use unnecessary details such as:
  - Lots of dates.
  - Processes or steps in a process.
  - Long descriptions.
  - Dialogue between characters.

Page 195

Chapter 8: Filled With Teacher Tools

Page 196

FIGURE 8.6 Five-paragraph essay rubric

Criteria (Standards)	4 Exceeds Proficiency	3 Meets Proficiency	2 Approaching Proficiency	1 Substantially Below Proficient	Comments
Introduction • Introduce the topic, question, or issue • Thesis statement • Three or more supporting reasons	The topic, question, issue is clearly introduced and leads to the thesis statement with three clear supporting reasons.	The topic, question, issue is introduced, there is a thesis statement with three clear supporting reasons.	The topic, question, issue is introduced, thesis is incomplete or confusing.	The topic, question, issue is unclear; thesis is incomplete, confusing, or irrelevant.
Body/Argument • Topic sentence • Specific evidence: • Examples • Quotations • Statistics • Transitions between reasons and evidence	Three or more supporting reasons are very strong; reasons are clearly introduced in a topic sentence and well supported with specific evidence, examples, facts, transitions skillfully used between evidence and reasons.	Three supporting reasons are clearly introduced in a topic sentence and well supported with specific evidence, examples, facts, transitions used between evidence and reasons.	Fewer than three supporting reasons; one or more reasons and/or supporting evidence are unclear or missing; few transitions.	Supporting reasons and evidence are unclear, confusing, or missing; no transitions.
Conclusion • Restate thesis • Closing, universal statement	Thesis is skillfully restated; a clear, universal statement concludes the essay.	Thesis is clearly restated; a universal statement concludes the essay.	Thesis restatement and concluding sentence is weak or unclear.	Thesis and conclusion are missing or irrelevant.
Organization • Follows the five-paragraph model (intro paragraph, three body paragraphs, conclusion paragraph) • Transitions between supporting evidence and paragraphs	Perfectly follows the five-paragraph essay model and uses transitions throughout essay.	Follows the five-paragraph essay model and uses transitions when necessary.	Some errors in the five-paragraph essay model; some missing or incorrectly used transitions.	No organizational structure; no use of transitions.

5 Paragraph Essay Rubric

FIGURE 8.6 Five-paragraph essay rubric

Criteria (Standards)	4 Exceeds Proficiency	3 Meets Proficiency	2 Approaching Proficiency	1 Substantially Below Proficient	Comments
Introduction • Introduce the topic, question, or issue • Thesis statement • Three or more supporting reasons	The topic, question, issue is clearly introduced and leads to the thesis statement with three clear supporting reasons.	The topic, question, issue is introduced, there is a thesis statement with three clear supporting reasons.	The topic, question, issue is introduced, thesis is incomplete or confusing.	The topic, question, issue is unclear; thesis is incomplete, confusing, or irrelevant.
Body/Argument • Topic sentence • Specific evidence: • Examples • Quotations • Statistics • Transitions between reasons and evidence	Three or more supporting reasons are very strong; reasons are clearly introduced in a topic sentence and well supported with specific evidence, examples, facts, transitions skillfully used between evidence and reasons.	Three supporting reasons are clearly introduced in a topic sentence and well supported with specific evidence, examples, facts, transitions used between evidence and reasons.	Fewer than three supporting reasons; one or more reasons and/or supporting evidence are unclear or missing; few transitions.	Supporting reasons and evidence are unclear, confusing, or missing; no transitions.
Conclusion • Restate thesis • Closing, universal statement	Thesis is skillfully restated; a clear, universal statement concludes the essay.	Thesis is clearly restated; a universal statement concludes the essay.	Thesis restatement and concluding sentence is weak or unclear.	Thesis and conclusion are missing or irrelevant.
Organization • Follows the five-paragraph model (intro paragraph, three body paragraphs, conclusion paragraph) • Transitions between supporting evidence and paragraphs	Perfectly follows the five-paragraph essay model and effectively uses a variety of transitions throughout essay.	Follows the five-paragraph essay model and uses transitions when necessary.	Some errors in the five-paragraph essay model; some missing or incorrectly used transitions.	No organizational structure; no use of transitions.

In Book On Page 196

Help ELLs Understand the Difference Between Paraphrasing vs. Summarizing

Paraphrasing

- Someone else's idea in your own language
- Completely changing the original text
- Using new words and sentence structure
- Providing a reference

Summarizing

- Only the most important points
- Communicating the main idea
- Condensing a larger amount of information into a smaller amount
- Using one's own words
- Providing a reference

<http://educatoral.com/paraphrase-vs-summarize.html>

Checklist

Summary Do's and Don'ts

Summary Do's

- ☐ I included the title of the text.
- ☐ I included the names of the main characters, ideas, and concepts.
- ☐ I wrote 1-2 short sentences or paragraphs about the beginning of the text.
- ☐ I wrote 1-2 short sentences or paragraphs about the middle of the text.
- ☐ I wrote 1-2 short sentences or paragraphs about the end of the text.
- ☐ I used present tense.

Summary Don'ts

- ☐ Do not write, "I think..." "I feel..." or "in my opinion..."
- ☐ Do not use entire phrases, sentences, paragraphs copied from text.
- ☐ Do not use unnecessary details such as
  - Lots of dates.
  - Processes or steps in a process.
  - Long descriptions.
  - Dialogues between characters.

To illustrate the difference between reader response and summary, it is helpful to teach these genres together. Point out the contrast between the two genres to help students better understand the distinct characteristics of summary and reader response. (Use Figure 8.1 in conjunction with the "Summary Do's and Don'ts" to help students differentiate between reader response and summary.)

Essays

Teaching the five-paragraph essay may be one of the most important skills you teach your students regarding academic writing. Nearly all academic content classes in secondary school, all standardized tests, and most classes in college require that students write essays, so it is crucial for the writing success of your students to start early and practice often. No matter their proficiency level, students can begin learning and practicing the five-paragraph essay structure. Because the five-paragraph essay can be used in any subject area and for any essay topic, Figure 8.6 can help guide students to produce a successful five-paragraph essay.)

Persuasive Essay

The purpose of a persuasive essay is for a writer to present an argument and convince, or persuade, the reader of the topic's validity. In order to write a good persuasive essay, a writer must:

- Choose a specific, narrow topic that can be debated (more than one side).
- Be knowledgeable about all sides of the topic, not just the writer's side.

De Not Copy... from the writer's side in the context of... Copyrighted Material—Cloud, Lakin, Fleming & Maxwell, 2010—Cason Publishing, Philadelphia

Basic Persuasive Topics

- The school lunch menu needs to change
- Lengthening/shortening the school day
- Someone in my family deserves an award
- Litter—in school or your neighborhood
- Computers in the classroom
- Homework—Too much? Too little?
- People worry too much about...
- It's more fun to be a kid than an adult
- It's better to be an only child than of many siblings

Source: Adapted from Holly, J. (no date), "Persuasive Essay Collection" Available at <http://home.earthlink.net/~jholly/persuasive.html>.

Since one key component to a successful essay is knowing the topic well from all sides, help students choose topics with which they are very familiar and with which they may have personal experience. The topic of school uniforms is one that teachers frequently use when first teaching about persuasive essays, and this topic translates well for many ELLs who themselves may have worn school uniforms in their native country. Likewise, topics that relate to school or the home are also good to use when introducing students of all language levels to persuasive essay. As students become more familiar with persuasive writing and as their academic language skills improve, you may experiment with using topics that center more around current events such as global warming, substance abuse, and the juvenile justice system.

One piece of advice to convey to students is that they do not necessarily have to agree with the position they are arguing for in their persuasive essay. The purpose of a persuasive essay is not necessarily to share your beliefs and opinions, though that may, at times, be the case. Rather, the purpose is to convincingly present an argument and support it with relevant facts and details. It is often difficult, but excellent practice, for students to try and understand and support a side of an issue that they may not personally agree with. Assure students that they are not "married" to their topic and that writing development is about learning to express ideas and perspectives, even though they may not be their own. (See the following "Persuasive Essay Checklist" and Figure 8.7 for instruction and assessment ideas.)

Persuasive Essay Checklist

1. Introductory Paragraph
  - Introduce controversial topic.
  - State your position on the topic.
  - State your three supporting reasons.
2. Body Paragraphs
  - Topic sentence introduces a supporting reason.
  - Reason is supported with specific evidence, examples, facts, and/or statistics.

Page 197

Persuasive Essay

Rubric: Persuasive Essays

FIGURE 6.7 Persuasive essay rubric

Criteria (Standards)	4 Exceeds Proficiency	3 Meets Proficiency	2 Approaching Proficiency	1 Substantially Below Proficient	Comments
Topic <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Clear</li> <li>Controversial</li> <li>A statement of position</li> <li>Stated in introductory paragraph and re-stated in concluding paragraph</li> </ul>	The topic and position are clearly introduced and explained in the introductory paragraph.	The topic and position are clearly introduced and somewhat explained in the introductory paragraph.	The topic or its controversy is unclear or not in the introductory paragraph.	Topic is never stated.
Supporting Reasons <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Intro paragraph states clear reasons</li> <li>Body paragraphs: Each reason is supported by specific evidence, examples, facts, and/or statistics</li> </ul>	Three supporting reasons are very strong and clear, and well-supported with specific evidence, examples, facts, and/or statistics.	Three supporting reasons are clear and supported with specific evidence, examples, facts, and/or statistics.	Fewer than three supporting reasons, one or more reasons and/or supporting evidence are unclear or missing.	Supporting reasons and evidence are unclear, confusing, or missing.
Opposing Argument <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Opposing position is considered, presented, and refuted</li> </ul>	All possible opposing positions are carefully considered, clearly presented, and skillfully refuted.	Many possible opposing positions are considered, presented, and refuted.	Some possible opposing positions are presented and argued against.	Opposing positions are not considered or presented.
Language <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Strong, persuasive voice</li> <li>Natural language</li> <li>Clear, varied words</li> </ul>	Language used is strong, clear, and persuasive, natural for the writer; varied words.	Language is clear and persuasive; some variety of words is used.	Language is dull, weak, repetitive, and/or unnatural for the writer.	Language is inaccurate, vague or confusing; may be incomprehensible.
Organization <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Follows the five-paragraph model (intro paragraph, three body paragraphs, conclusion paragraph)</li> <li>Transitions between supporting evidence and paragraphs</li> </ul>	Perfectly follows the five-paragraph model; each paragraph is clearly stated, and effectively uses a variety of transitions throughout essay.	Follows the five-paragraph model and uses transitions when necessary.	Some errors in the five-paragraph model; some missing or incorrectly used transitions.	No organizational structure; no use of transitions.

Copyrighted Material—Cloud, Lakin, Leininger & Maxwell, 2010—Cengage Publishing, Philadelphia

Supports for Opinion Pieces

Opinion-Proof Framework Sheet

Opinion Statement

Evidence to Prove My Opinion

Framed Paragraph:

OPINION STATEMENT

One reason I feel this way is because

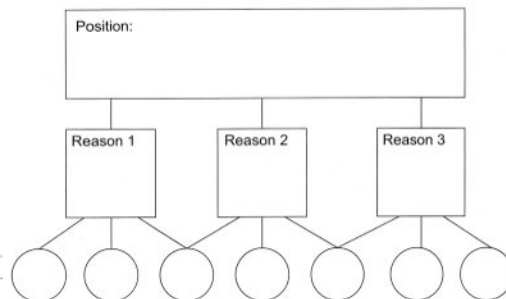

In addition,

Also,

Finally,

Cognitive Strategies

Evidence Chart

Compare and Contrast Essays

Page 200

200 Helpful Writing Formats to Use with ELs That Can Cross Personal and Factual Genres

- Transition to the next paragraph.
  - Opposing position is considered, presented, and refuted.
3. Concluding Paragraph
- Restate the topic, your position, and supporting reasons.
  - Closing statement.

Comparison/Contrast Essay

The intention of a comparison/contrast essay is to analyze and then highlight the similarities and differences between two subjects. Comparison/contrast essays can be written using two different, easy-to-follow formats: divided or alternating (see "Compare/Contrast Essay Checklist" for details). Beginner-level topics may include seasons, cars, schools, rooms in a house, and foods. Intermediate-level topics may include musical groups, countries, restaurants, short texts, a movie based on a text, or different lifestyles. Advanced topics may include very specific topics related to historical events or persons; scientific processes, discoveries, or persons; and mathematics equations, theories, or persons.

Compare/Contrast Essay Checklist

1. Introduction
  - There is a lead into the topics.
  - There is a thesis about the topics.
2. Body Paragraphs—Divided or Alternating

Divided

  - Topic 1 is fully described and analyzed in one to three paragraphs.
  - Topic 2 is fully described and analyzed in one to three paragraphs.
  - Topics 1 and 2 are compared and contrasted in one to three paragraphs.

Alternating

  - Topics 1 and 2 are fully described, analyzed, and compared in one to three paragraphs.
  - Topics 1 and 2 are fully described, analyzed, and contrasted in one to three paragraphs.
3. Concluding Paragraph
  - Restate the topics and your thesis.
  - Closing statement proving your thesis.

Historical Essay

What makes a historical essay distinct is that it includes an analytic response to a historically based question. Inherent in a historical essay is the use of past tense, which is not a defining characteristic of all essays. Indeed most essays—literary analysis, the presentation of scientific information—are written in present tense. But historical essays have characteristics in common with other essays: presenting a thesis and supporting it with evidence and fact.

Do Not Copy

Copyrighted Material—C16

Which Tools Are You Using?

- Word boxes, word capturing tools (e.g. Vocabulary notebook, word maps)
- Graphic organizers; other types of visual tools (plot lines, etc.)
- Sentence frames, starters
- Essay/Paragraph frames
- Checklists
- Guides (Do's and don'ts reminders)
- Step-by-step guides/supports

THE GOAL

Get Students to Use These Tools on Their Own

- Give Strategies
- Tactics
- Make Active
- Give Confidence

Using Dust Bowl
Literature to Advance
Language:
Close Reading for Language Structures and Language Variety to Push Students' Language
Forward

Dust Bowl Literature in Our Unit

Gr. 5.3
GRL X

Gr. 6.8
Lexile 1120

Gr. 9.3
Lexile 1040

Gr. 9.0

More Dust Bowl Literature to Consider

Lexile 460-1240
across the chapters;
Average 680

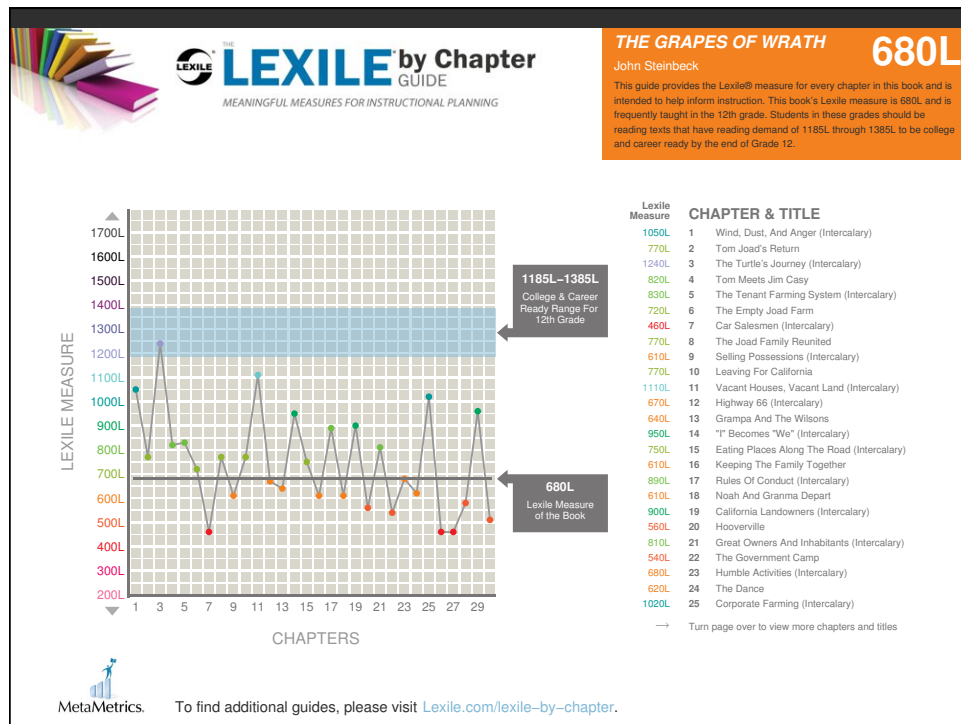

Lexile 1120
GR 7.4
Guided Rdg W
DRA 60

Gr 8; Lexile 1160

Helping ELLs
Acquire More Complex
Language Patterns for their Writing

CLOSE READING:
BUILDING
LANGUAGE USING MENTOR TEXTS
Starting with Photo
Documentary Texts

Then when it seemed that things couldn't get any worse, they did. The year was 1936. It hadn't rained more than a few drops in the Panhandle for five straight years. One day the wind started to blow, and every day it blew harder and harder, as if nature were playing a cruel joke on the Okies. The wind blew the dry soil into the air, and every morning the sun rose only to disappear behind a sky of red dirt and dust. The wind knocked open doors, shattered windows and leveled barns.

Models of Longer, More Complex Sentences

It became known as the great Dust bowl, and it was centered in the Panhandle near Goodwell, Oklahoma. From there it stretched to the western half of Kansas, the eastern half of Colorado, the northeastern portion of New Mexico and northern Texas. In these areas, and especially in the Panhandle, the dry winds howled for four long years, from 1936 to 1940. Frequently the wind blew more than fifty miles and hour, carrying away the topsoil and leaving only hard red clay, which made farming impossible.

Different Ways to Begin Sentences

Digesting and Interpreting CAPTIONS And Visuals

What ideas/concepts are the photographs designed to capture?

Let's practice

Page 15 Heading: Mean Clouds

Captions:

The tractor and house of a dry farmer in Oklahoma.

Farming in Oklahoma. Drought and wind have ruined the field behind the farmer.

Now look at page 16 and discuss the captions and the visuals

Gr. 9.3
Lexile 1040

Techniques:

- Adjectives
- Serial Adjectives
- Vivid verbs
- Precise nouns
- Adverbs
- Prepositional phrases

Descriptive Language Study- pg. 18 in your Text Excerpt Packet

For Want of Oxygen

When a dust storm struck, family members quickly sealed windows and doors with gummed tape, felt strips, or rags. This cut air circulation to such a degree that lamps flickered for lack of oxygen and breathing became difficult. When someone felt as if they might pass out, a window was opened just a bit, letting in a swirling dust-deluge. Yet even with every opening sealed, the dust, fine as talcum powder, got in through invisible cracks.

The kitchen of 1937. Notice the attempt to keep the dust out.

Meanwhile, families hunkered down at home. A woman in Garden City, Kansas, told how it felt to sit helplessly while sheets of wind-blown dust lashed her house.

All we could do about it was just sit in our dusty chairs, gaze at each other through the fog that filled the room and watch the fog settle slowly and silently, covering everything—including ourselves—in a thick, brownish gray blanket. . . . The door and windows were all shut tightly, yet those tiny particles seemed to seep through the very walls. It got into cupboards and clothes closets; our faces were as dirty as if we had rolled in the dirt; our hair was gray and stiff and we ground dirt between our teeth.<sup>13</sup>

In her Dust Bowl Diary, Ann Marie Low, a North Dakota rancher's daughter, told of cleaning up after a black blizzard. For four solid days, Ann Marie's life was nothing but wash, wash, wash.

The mess was incredible! Dirt had blown into the house all week and lay inches deep on everything. Every towel and curtain was just black. There wasn't a clean dish or cooking utensil. . . . It took until 10 o'clock to wash all the dirty dishes. That's not wiping them—just washing them. The cupboards had to be washed out to have a clean place to put them. . . . Every room had to have dirt almost shoveled out of it before we could wash floors and furniture. . . . Every towel, curtain, piece of bedding, and every garment had to be taken outdoors to have as much dust as possible shaken out before washing. The cistern is dry, so I had to carry all the water needed from the well. . . . Life in what the newspapers call "the Dust Bowl" is becoming a gritty nightmare.<sup>14</sup>

Take this paragraph and write a long descriptive sentence telling about the mess inside the house. Start with "The house, . . . ."

Listening to Augment Reading

Chapter 6

Using Dust Bowl Literature to Advance Writing:

Close Reading (with Audio Support) to Advance Vocabulary
Knowledge and Skills

[https:// timothyeganbooks.co m/books-2/the-worst-
hard-time/](https://timothyeganbooks.com/books-2/the-worst-hard-time/)

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UuNLGv-IrAM> (1 min.)

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=UvMI97wHXN4>

(all three)

Advanced Placement United States History (APUSH)

Setting the Tone
For Reading

Movie Trailer

Close Reading Strategies

1. Observe facts and details about the text.
2. Read with a pencil in hand, and annotate the text. Underline or highlight key words and phrases.
3. Look for patterns in the text—details that convince us of our location or the feelings of characters
4. Why were these words or phrases selected? Notice figurative language. What did the writer want to convey?
5. Ask questions; interpret meanings
6. Look at style, tone, structures, but most of all themes.

Use Small Segments: Do a Close Reading

CLOSE READING

..... anchor chart .....

CLOSE READERS

DO THESE THINGS

- ☒ Read the text slowly at least twice ► x 2
- ☒ Get the gist of what the text is about ★
- ☒ Circle words you aren't sure of and try to figure them out ○
- ☒ Reread, annotate, and underline key vocabulary
- ☒ Use the text to answer questions ???
- ☒ Gather evidence from the text
- ☒ Talk with each other about what you think it means
- ☒ Read again to summarize or answer specific questions ↻

The Worst Hard Time, Historical Nonfiction 9th grade reading level

Pages 2-3

Audio Excerpts: Audio 1 (copy/paste)

<https://tantor.com/the-worst-hard-time-timothy-egan.html>

<https://www.curriculet.com/c/142568-the-worst-hard-time>

Common Core Standards Tied to the Book

2006 National Book Award for Nonfiction

Copse=thicket

Audio Support

2 TIMOTHY EGAN

weather — probably the most violent and extreme on earth — demand only one thing: humility.

Throughout the Great Plains, a visitor passes more nothing than something. Or so it seems. An hour goes by on the same straight line and then up pops a town on a map — Twity, Texas, or Inavale, Nebraska. The town has slipped away, dying at some point without funeral or proper burial.

In other places, scraps of life are frozen in death at midwinter, as Lee's wife was petrified to salt while fleeing to higher ground. Here is a wood-framed shack buried by sand, with only the roof joints still visible. In the distance is a copse of skeletal trees, the bones of orchards dried to a leanness like charcoal. And is that a schoolhouse, with just the chimney and two walls still standing? Then you see fence posts, the rails sticking out of sterile brown earth. Once, the posts enclosed an idea that something could come from a shank of the southern plains to make life better than it was in a place that an Elsie, an O'Leary, or a Mentoya had left. The fence posts rose six feet or more out of the ground. They are buried now but for the rails that poke through layers of dust.

In those cedar posts and collapsed homes is the story of this place: how the greatest grassland in the world was turned inside out, how the crust blew away, ragged up in the sky and showered down a suffocating blackness off and on for most of a decade. In parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas, it seemed on many days as if a curtain were being drawn across a vast stage at world's end. The land convulsed in a way that had never been seen before, and it did so at a time when one out of every four adults was out of work. The people who live here now, the ones who never left, are still trying to make sense of why the earth turned on them. Much as they love this place, their doubts run deep. Was it a mistake to hang on? Will they be the last generation to inhabit the southern plains? And some feel deep shame — for the land's failure, and their part in it. Outside Inavale not long ago, an old woman was found burning a Dust Bowl diary written by her husband. Her neighbor was astonished: why destroy such an intimate family record? The horror, the woman explained, was not worth sharing. She wanted it gone forever.

Audio (1)

THE WORST HARD TIME 3

Fence tops lead to small farms, some still pulsing with life, and lead further to towns that service what is left of the homestead sections. Here is Springfield, standing for another day in Baca County, in the far southeast corner of Colorado, with Kansas on its eastern side, the No Man's Land of the Oldhama Parhandle to the south, a piece of New Mexico in another corner. For sale signs. A mini-mart. A turkey buzzard perched on a tower near city hall. Springfield is the county seat for Baca, which has about four thousand people spread over its wrinkled emptiness — fewer than two people per square mile. A hundred years ago, a county with population density this low was classified as "frontier." By that definition, there is far more frontier now in this part of the world than in the day of the sod house. The town has the High Plains look, that slow-death slumber. They have not tried to dress it up or put makeup on battered storefronts. It is what it is. No flashing banners. No pretense.

A few blocks off Main Street is a house of sturdy stone. A bang on the door brings a small, brittle woman to the porch.

"I'm looking for Isaac Outteen."

"No?" Her voice is from somewhere long ago. "You want Ike?"

"Sure."

"He's up on the ladder, fixing the roof. One back."

The roof is steep-pitched, a challenge for the nimble. Ike Outteen is eighty-six years old. He scrambles to the edge, a twenty-five-foot drop to the ground.

"Hello, there," he says. He is springy still, with liquid blue eyes, a full head of silver hair.

"Morning."

"You wanna talk about this drought?"

It is never drought in the southern plains.

All around him, the land is drying up again, a few years into the new century. The snow never came to many parts of the Rockies this year, and where it did fall, there is nothing left. The white reservoir of mountain snowpack — feeding the Arkansas River, the Cimarron, the

Use Small Segments: Do a Close Reading

CLOSE READING

..... anchor chart .....

CLOSE READERS

DO THESE THINGS

- ☒ Read the text slowly at least twice ➡ x 2
- ☒ Get the gist of what the text is about ★
- ☒ Circle words you aren't sure of and try to figure them out ○
- ☒ Reread, annotate, and underline key vocabulary 📝
- ☒ Use the text to answer questions ???
- ☒ Gather evidence from the text 🔍
- ☒ Talk with each other about what you think it means 💬
- ☒ Read again to summarize or answer specific questions ↻

READ WITH A PEN

ANNOTATING MARKS

9TH-12TH

-  Circle powerful words or phrases
-  Underline words or phrases you do not understand
-  ? Raises a question Write question in margin
-  ! Something that surprises you Note what caught your attention
-  → Draw an arrow when you make a Note connection connection to text, ideas, or experiences
-  EX When author provides example
-  1, 2, 3,... Numerate arguments, important ideas, or key details Write words or phrases that restates them
-  Write important thoughts in the margin

Read With A Pen Attribution Some rights reserved by Tracy Watanabe Photo Attribution Some rights reserved by mrsdrebbs

Annotating the Text

TEXT ANNOTATION

A STEP BY STEP GUIDE TO INCREASE READING COMPREHENSION

Step One: Number	Number each paragraph.
Step Two: Chunk	Divide the text into chunks. - Draw a line between paragraphs that are similar, to divide the page into smaller sections.
Step Three: Key Words	Circle key words. - Key terms are words like repeated words, figurative language, powerful verbs, descriptive words
Step Four: Left Margin	For each chunk of text, do the following in the left margin: - Summarize in your own words 50-60 words or less - Draw a line next to any key ideas. Explain why you think it is important.

The Worst Hard Time, 9th grade reading level

Pages
136-137

Audio 2:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3szOGQdKQNK>

2006 National Book Award for Nonfiction

Audio Support

10

Big Blows

THE LAND WOULD NOT DIE an easy death. Fields were bare, scraped to hardpan in places, heaving in others. The skies carried soil from state to state. With no appreciable rain for two years, even deep wells were gasping to draw from the natural underground reservoir. One late winter day in 1933, a battalion of heavy clouds massed over No Man's Land. At midday, the sun disappeared. Lights were turned on in town in order to see. The clouds dumped layers of dust, one wave after the other, an aerial assault that covered streets in Boise City, buried brown pockets of grass, and rolled over big Will Crawford's dugout and the patch of ground where Sadie had tried to establish her garden with a tin-can irrigation system. They had to shovel furiously to avoid being swallowed by the enraged peat.

Hazel Lucas Shaw watched the dust seep through the thinnest cracks in the walls of their rental house, spread over the china, into the bedroom, onto the sheets. When she woke in the morning, the only clean part of her pillow was the outline of her head. She taped all the windows and around the outer edge of doors, but the dust always found a way in. She learned never to set a dinner plate out until ready to eat, to cook with the pots covered, to leave no standing water out for long or it would turn to mud. She had decided to give up the teaching job that paid worthless scrip and to try and start a family. Her husband, Charles, had at last opened his business, a funeral home in the rental house. Town was supposed to be an easier place to

136

Audio (2)

THE WORST HARD TIME 137

20

live than a dead homestead to the south. But Boise City faced the same tormenter — the skies that brought no rain, only dirt. Some days Hazel put on her white gloves and sat at the table — a small act of defiance that seemed both silly and brave.

The temperature fell more than seventy degrees in less than twenty-four hours one February day in 1933. It reached fourteen below zero in Boise City and still the dust blew in with the arctic chill. Hazel tried everything to stay warm and keep the house clean. Dust dominated life. Driving from Boise City to Dalhart, a journey of barely fifty miles, was like a trip out on the open seas in a small boat. The road was fine in parts, rutted and hard, but a few miles later it disappeared under waves of drifting dust. Unable to see more than a car length ahead, the Shaws followed telephone poles to get from one town to the next.

At the Panhandle A&M weather station, they recorded seventy days of severe dust storms in 1933. Weather forecasting was still a rough skill in that year, a hit and miss game. The basic instruments for measuring air movement, temperature, and all that fell from the sky were little changed over the previous 350 years. The government predicted the weather by rounding up readings from more than two hundred reporting stations across the country and from air balloons, planes, and kite stations. The information was sent by Teletype to Washington twice a day. There, a map was drawn up and a forecast went out from the weather bureau for different regions of the nation. It was based on the movement and struggle between high and low barometric pressure — an ancient way of predicting weather. The forecast always originated in the capital, which is one reason why older, more skeptical seafarers still referred to weather prediction by its nineteenth-century term — the "probability." A hardly homely such as "Clear moon, frost soon" or "Red sky at night, sheep herder's delight, red sky in the morning, sheep herder take warning" was more trusted, and not just by those who worked the land. During his days as an air-mail carrier, Charles Lindbergh said he ignored the official weather bureau forecast; it was useless. Throughout the 1930s, as one technological marvel after the other changed American life, the tools of weather forecasting remained items that would have been familiar to

Identify Tier 1 and Tier 2 Words

Tier 1

Tier 2

- Context Clues
<https://www.flocabulary.com/unit/context-clues/video/>
- Descriptive Language
<https://www.flocabulary.com/unit/using-descriptive-language/video/>
- Take Notes:
<https://www.flocabulary.com/unit/note-taking-methods/video/>

Gr 5.3
GRL X

Close Reading with Historical Fiction (Poetry, Rhyme)

OUT OF THE DUST

Out of The Dust: Using Book Trailers (with Embedded Documentary Photography)

Trailers to be Read/Viewed

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QCyUxjsobHo>

Trailers that Involve Listening

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=T2rtj2IGdRg>

Gr. 5.3
GRL X

Use Small Segments: Do a Close Reading

Close Reading: Interpreting the Pronouns

Page 24 Excerpt Packet

Roots

President Roosevelt tells us to plant trees. Trees will break the wind. He says, trees will end the drought, the animals can take shelter there, children can take shelter. Trees have roots, he says. They hold on to the land.

“he tells us”

"he says"

"they (roots) hold onto the land"

That's good advice, but I'm not sure he understands the problem.

Trees have never been at home here.
They're just not meant to be here.
Maybe none of us are meant to be here only the prairie grass and the hawks.

"what's at home here"?

"what's meant to be here"?

My father will stay, no matter what,
he's stubborn as sod,
He and the land have a hold on each other,
But what about me?

August 1934

"he and the land have a hold on each other"

But what about me?

Using Dust Bowl Literature to Teach Students How to Gather, Interpret and Use Evidence to Support their Position

Social Studies Practices

1. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence
2. Chronological Reasoning and Causation
3. Comparison and Contextualization
4. Geographic Reasoning
5. Economics and Economics Systems
6. Civic Participation

ELL Needs
Identified in Regents
Results

Social Studies Practices

1. Gathering, Using, and Interpreting Evidence
2. Chronological Reasoning and Causation
3. Comparison and Contextualization
4. Geographic Reasoning
5. Economics and Economics Systems
6. Civic Participation

CORE Area Instructional Practices

ELA Practices (Proficiencies), from CCSS:

Demonstrate independence
Build strong content knowledge
Respond to the varying demands of audience, task, purpose, and discipline
Comprehend as well as critique
Value evidence
Use technology and digital media strategically and capably
Come to understand other perspectives and cultures

Social Studies Practices, from NYSED SS Framework:

Gather, interpret and use evidence
Apply chronological reasoning and consider causation
Compare and contextualize
Apply geographic reasoning
Analyze economics and economic systems
Engage in, and value, civic participation

Greg Ahlquist, 2013 NYS Teacher of the Year
Social Studies Teacher, NYSED Consultant, May 5, 2016

*Some statements have been modified in order to fit the purpose of the district project.

engage<sup>ny</sup>

Gathering Evidence

Powtoon: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=uzMOAllSvnY> (1 min).

Teaching Channel:

- <https://www.teachingchannel.org/videos/teaching-about-textual-evidence>

(Child Labor topic)

Instructional Videos to Teach
How to Gather and Cite Evidence

STUDY.COM

- English: What does it mean to cite text evidence? 6:01
<http://study.com/academy/lesson/citing-textual-evidence-to-support-analysis.html>

Supporting your writing with examples and evidence

How to use Evidence 4 mins. (types of evidence to use)-SCI ex.

<http://study.com/academy/lesson/supporting-your-writing-with-examples-and-evidence.html>

Preparing Students to Support their Position: Listening to Understand the Task

• 1.

GEOGRAPHY: MIGRATION

[https:// www.flocabulary.com/unit/migration/
video/](https://www.flocabulary.com/unit/migration/video/)

Essay:

Do you believe that push or pull factors were more prominent in the migration of farming families during the Dust Bowl?

Cite evidence to support your thesis statement.

Page 21-23 Excerpt Packet

110 TIMOTHY EGAN

of the standoff he showed up with an antique revolver, waving it in the faces of Texas Rangers. And when blacks tried to hold an Emancipation Day parade in a park in Oklahoma City, the governor imposed martial law on the city and ordered his guard troops to shut them down. Blacks were supposed to be invisible in his state, quietly working the land or manning a factory station. All told, the governor issued thirty-four declarations of martial law during his four years in office.

The land dried up in the spring of 1933. Month after month, going into the height of the growing season, there was no rain. The sky was white and hot, and it took until well after midnight for the heat to dissipate. Alfalfa Bill urged people to fight nature with force. The unemployment rate in his state was 29 percent. To show them what could be done, he plowed up the grass on the grounds of the capitol and let people plant vegetable gardens. And to demonstrate how water could be taken from the ground, Murray went on a building binge, trying to create lakes and ponds in places that had neither. The ground could be mined at the deepest levels for water, using new and powerful centrifugal pumps, to create the garden state of Oklahoma. They could grab onto that underground lake, the Ogallala Aquifer, like the Sooners had grabbed the old Cherokee lands, and so what if the water was nearly seven hundred feet deep and had taken at least a hundred centuries to build up — it was there to be grubstaked.

In Boise City, Alfalfa Bill's plans sounded like a tonic. God knows they needed water. It wasn't trickling out of the Elmer Rockies. The Cimarron, once a roaring river, was now a near trail. And it wasn't coming from overhead. It rained barely ten inches in all of 1933. The sun glared down at settlers in No Man's Land, every dawn a new punishment. It was time for man to stand up to the pockered face of the elements.

"Human progress has now reached the stage where it can master these mighty forces of nature," wrote the Beise City News, in support of a proposed dam in No Man's Land.

In the spring of 1935, Alfalfa Bill decided to run for president. He would follow the model that got him elected governor. In running for the statehouse, he had campaigned on the Three C's. Now he ran on a platform of promising people the "Four B's: Bread, Butter, Bacon,

Gr. 9.0

Houghton Mifflin Harcourt
2006

THE WORST HARD TIME 111

and Beans." That a governor could run for the highest office of the land with a campaign that offered people calories said something about 1935.

By late winter, the suitcase farmers who had flooded into the southern plains during the biggest wheat-growing boom in the nation's history had completely disappeared. They had scalped the sod in the panhandles of Texas and Oklahoma, had followed the new rail lines into dry-old towns in Nebraska, southwestern Kansas, and Baca County, Colorado. For a few years, they hit the crop just as anticipated, but if they hit a crop in the early 1930s, it was worthless. When they walked away, they left behind torn-up land, abandoned like a played-out strip mine. Other people, some with homesteads or mortgages, started to leave as well, just disappearing, not even locking the door behind them. But most drylanders had no plans to go anywhere. They saw the newswrecks in the Mission Theater in Dulhart and the Palace in Boise City, showing those headlines in the big cities, the apple vendors on every street corner, the millions crying for relief. At least here, in a cashless economy, people could square a dozen eggs every day from a house of hens, or get a pail of milk from an old cow, or spread water from the windmill onto the ground to grow vegetables, or fatten up a pig, then smoke a winter's supply of bacon. They also thought, in the first year of the epic drought, that things had to change because they always did. Wet years followed dry years. You hung on, as Haul Lucas Shaw did, even though she worked for nothing at the one-room schoolhouse. They hung on because this was still the only place they could call theirs. Going to the city, or to California, was a journey to the unknown.

Subsistence farming may have kept people alive, but it did nothing for the land, which was going fallow section by section. At the end of 1931, the Agriculture College of Oklahoma did a survey of all the land that had been torn up in their state during the wheat bonanza. They were astonished by what they found: sixteen million acres in cultivation in the state, thirteen million were seriously eroded. And this was before the drought had calcified most of the ground. The erosion was due to a pair of perennial weather conditions on the plains: wind

START

Supporting/Evaluating Claims with Evidence

Page 111-113
The Worst Hard Time

Author's Claim

Evidence Cited

It was a third element—something new to the prairie ecosystem—that as really to blame (for the erosion): neglect. (Page 112, top)

112 TIMOTHY EGAN

and brief, powerful rain or hailstorms. But it was a third element — something new to the prairie ecosystem — that was really to blame, the college agriculture experts reported: neglect. Farmers had taken their machines to the fields and produced the biggest wheat crops in history, transforming the great grasslands into a vast medium for turning out a global commodity. And then they ditched it.

"The area seems doomed to become in dreary reality the Great American Desert shown on early maps," wrote Lawrence Svoboda, a Kansas wheat farmer who kept a journal of his slow decline. Svoboda had started to see the wheat game as an elaborate fraud if not a tragic mistake. He had come to the plains in 1929, a young man whose money, he felt, had been lost in his first crop "lengthy-their water from foraging on the native turf. Through the driest years, the web of life held. When a farmer tore out the sod and then walked away, leaving the land naked, however, that barren patch posed a threat to neighbors. It could not revert to grass, because the roots were gone. It was empty, dead, and resistant. But this was not something farmers argued about in meetings where they clamored for price support from the government. Nor was it the topic of scientists or government specialists, at least not early on. People were frantically trying to find a way out of the hole of an economy without light. They were struggling to stay alive, to find enough money to buy shoes, fuel, goods that could not be made by hand at home. What was happening to the land in the early 1930s was nearly unnoticed at first. Still, it was a different world, off balance, and ill. So when the winds blew in the winter of 1932, they picked up the soil with little resistance and sent it skyward.

113 THE WORST HARD TIME

At about noon on January 22, 1932, a cloud ran downwind from high from ground to top appeared just outside Amarillo. The winds had been fierce all day, clocked at sixty miles an hour when the curtain dropped over the Panhandle. The sky lost its customary white, and it turned brownish then gray as the thing lumbered around the edge of Amarillo, a city of 45,000 people. Nobody knew what to call it. It was not a rain cloud. Nor was it a cloud holding ice pellets. It was not a twister. It was thick like coarse animal hair; it was alive. People close to it described a feeling of being in a blizzard — a black blizzard, they called it — with an edge like steel wool. The weather bureau people in Amarillo were fascinated by the cloud precisely because it defied explanation. They wrote in their logs that it was "most spectacular." As sunlight came through the lighter edge of the big cloud, it appeared greenish. After hovering near Amarillo, the cloud moved north up the Texas Panhandle, toward Oklahoma, Colorado, and Kansas.

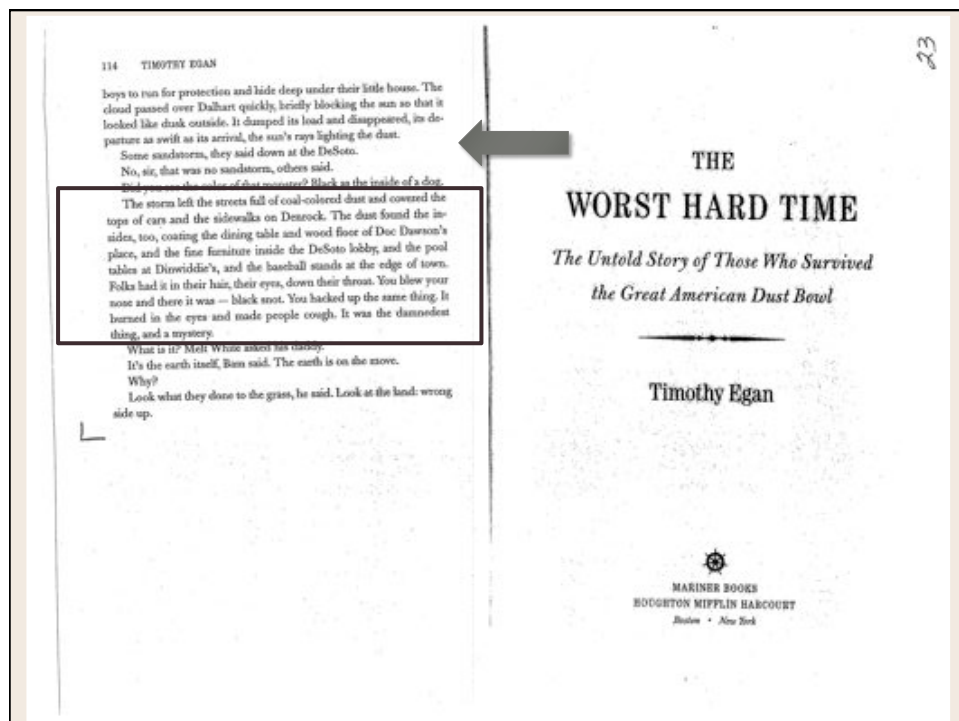

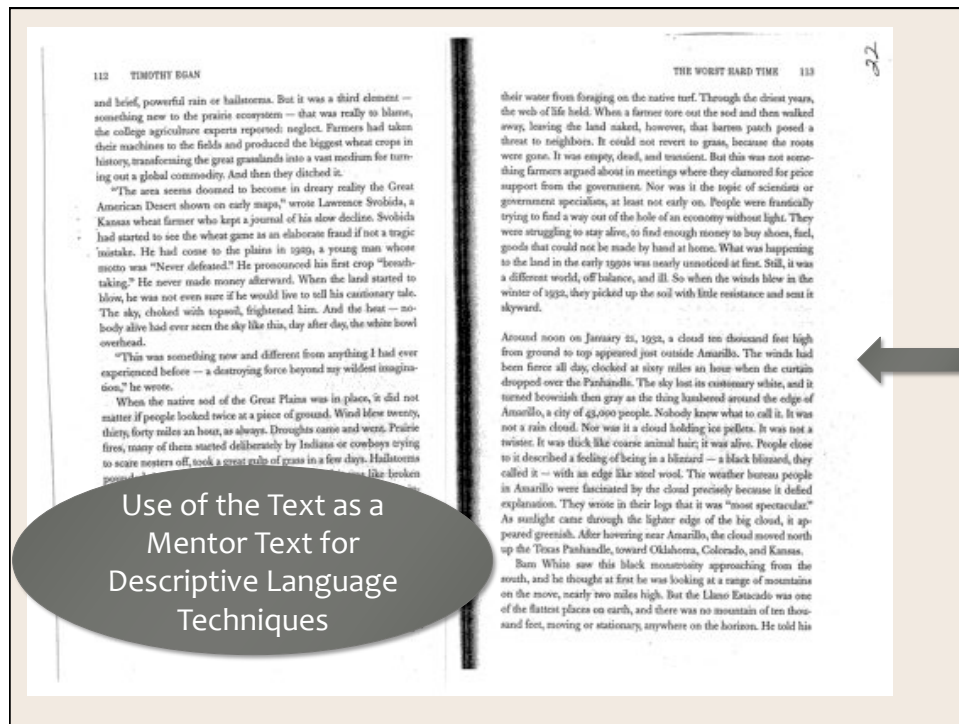

Sam White saw this black monstrosity approaching from the south, and he thought at first he was looking at a range of mountains on the move, nearly two miles high. But the Llano Estacado was one of the flattest places on earth, and there was no mountain of ten thousand feet, moving or stationary, anywhere on the horizon. He told his

Bottom of Page 112, Top of Page 113

"This was something new and different from anything I had ever experienced before — a destroying force beyond my wildest imagination," he wrote.

When the native sod of the Great Plains was in place, it did not matter if people looked twice at a piece of ground. Wind blew twenty, thirty, forty miles an hour, as always. Droughts came and went. Prairie fires, many of them started deliberately by Indians or cowboys trying to scare cattle off, took a great gulp of grass in a few days. Hailstorms pounded the land. Blue northers froze it so hard it was like broken glass to walk on. Through all of the seasonal tempests, man was inconsequential. As long as the weave of grass was stitched to the land, the prairie would flourish in dry years and wet. The grass could look brown and dead, but beneath the surface, the roots held the soil in place; it was alive and dormant. The short grass, buffalo and blue grama, had evolved as the perfect fit for the sandy loam of the arid zone. It could hold moisture a foot or more below ground level even during summer droughts, when hot winds robbed the surface of all water-bearing life. In turn, the grass nurtured pin-tailed grouse, prairie chickens, cranes, jackrabbits, snakes, and other creatures that got

Finally:
To Help
Students
Show What They Know--
Teach
Students
What Key
Words in Test Prompts
Mean

Responding to Writing Prompts

To write an effective response to a writing prompt, you need to determine more than just your topic, audience, and form. You also need to be able to recognize the key words or directions in the prompt and to know how to respond to those directions appropriately. Familiarizing yourself with the information in the following chart can help you do both of these things.

Direction	Action
Describe, Identify, Define	Identify the main equalities or distinguishing characteristics of your subject, using specific facts or sensory details.
Recount, Narrate, Relate, Tell About	Present the sequence of events in a story or the steps in a process in chronological order. Use vivid verbs and sensory details.
Discuss	Identify the key points or relationships, backing these up with examples, quotations, comparisons, and other details.
Explain	Present the main points of or important steps in whatever you have been asked to explain, using facts, examples, and reasons to clarify what you mean.
Compare, Contrast	Show the ways in which two or more things are alike and the ways in which they differ, using examples and other details to support similarity and difference you point out.
Analyze, Evaluate, Review	Examine the main qualities of your subject to arrive at a conclusion about some aspect of it, such as how well the parts function together as a whole.
Show Causes and Effects	Present the reasons for and the results of a particular event or situation, using specific details to clarify precisely what happened.
Persuade, Convince, Express Your Opinion	State your point of view and support it with facts, statistics, examples, quotations, and other sound evidence.
Interpret	Explain in your own words the meaning of whatever you've been asked to interpret, supporting your ideas with facts and other details.
Summarize	Present a condensed version of a story or a process by relating only the main events or steps and showing how one leads to the next. Do not include supporting details or other types of elaboration.

She's Almost
There! Take her to the Finish Line!

What will you do to help kids like Karina improve their listening comprehension and writing?

Nancy Cloud
ncloud@ric.edu
nancycloud2@gmail.com

